Britain "Will Do What We Said"—Eden

On Mid-East in British Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today made clear that Anglo-French forces would move into the Suez Canal zone despite United States opposition.

Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons: "We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

Shortly after his speech an official British statement from Nicosia, Cyprus said: "An air offensive by bomber aircraft under Allied command is at this moment being launched against military targets in Egypt."

Eden said that the Anglo-French request Tuesday to Egypt to allow troops to enter the three main canal zone towns still was open.

PRIME MINISTER EDEN

Defends British Veto in UN

Eden defended his policy against a barrage of Labor criticism for failing to discuss the Anglo-French decision beforehand with the United States.

He also defended Britain's veto of a U.S. resolution before the United Nations Security Council Tuesday calling for a ceasefire in the two-day-old war and withdrawal of Israeli forces to within their own borders.

Eden said: "The moment that the French government and ourselves had reached the conclusions about what we should do I authorized the dispatch of a full message to the United States explaining our action before even coming down to this House."

Eden also said Britain must protect her vital interests in the Middle East with or without prior agreement of the United States.

He told the House of Commons: "We cannot accept that we have to obtain the agreement of the United States before acting in our own vital interests."

In what amounted to an appeal for U.S. understanding, the prime minister said: "It is sometimes a government's duty to take a decision for its own country."

TORIES WHOOP IT UP OVER WIN IN N.S.

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Cocky Conservatives were celebrating here Wednesday the end of 23 years of Liberal rule in Nova Scotia, where Tuesday the PCs won 23 out of 43 seats. (See story, Page 6.)

They are predicting that similar all-out organizational efforts would bring the same results in Manitoba during the provincial election there expected in 1957.

There are now only three provincial governments that are Liberal: Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba.

The Conservatives also have three provinces. They are: Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario.

it wants all the Communist countries to be completely sovereign, and is willing to talk about the disposition of Soviet troops in Hungary, Poland and Romania.

An unusual declaration issued by the government Tuesday night was interpreted by diplomatic observers as indicating Moscow was seeking a graceful way out of an increasingly embarrassing situation within the Communist camp.

The Soviet troops in Poland, Hungary and Romania are there under terms of the Warsaw pact, a Russian-commanded mutual defence alliance formed last year by the Soviet Union and her Eastern European allies.

Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov told Western correspondents that all the pact members would have to agree to the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary, a major demand of the rebels there.

There was no mention in the declaration of Soviet troops in East Germany.

No Planes, Ships To Mid-East—PM

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government today decided to suspend "for the time being" all shipment of arms to Israel.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Egypt also would get no arms if she asked for them.

The prime minister also said Canada did not intend to send planes or ships to the troubled area.

He also told reporters following a three-hour extraordinary cabinet meeting on the Middle East crisis that he has made no decision to recall parliament and hoped that such a recall would not be necessary.

He sidestepped a question as to whether the suspension of arms shipments to Israel implied Canadian government criticism of Israel's invasion of Egypt.

Washington Reaction '... Anger ... Shock ...'

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Relations between the United States and its chief European allies in the Middle East crisis have collapsed into a dangerous state of confusion and disunity.

U.S. officials, some angry and some shocked, are frankly uncertain what the consequences will be, either in the turbulent Middle East or in the broader framework of the Western alliance.

It seems evident that the split has wrecked the 1950 agreement in which the Big Three undertook to maintain the balance of power in the Middle East and to prevent any aggression.

MAY UNITE ARABS

Some authorities here believe the intervention may prove to be disastrous by uniting the Arab world against Britain and France. If a prolonged state of war should develop, pipelines carrying oil for Europe could be cut and shipping in the Suez Canal could become hazardous.

What the U.S. would do in such a situation is not certain.

The major immediate aim of U.S. policy is to try by all available resources of diplomacy to keep the Middle East fight from spreading.

American officials are dismayed that the Middle Eastern crisis with its remarkable complications—which saw the U.S. and Russia voting together against Britain and France in the United Nations Tuesday night—has so largely eclipsed developments in Hungary and in Russia's relations with its eastern European satellites.

As one official puts it: "The world may lose sight of the fact that freedom is winning its greatest battle in 10 years of struggle with Soviet communism."

EISENHOWER BROADCAST AT 4 P.M.

The president's speech, from his White House office, will be carried by all the radio and television networks in the U.S. and Canada.

Cairo Claims City Hit Navy Also in Action

LONDON (CP)—British bombers attacked military targets in Egypt today.

Cairo radio reported the Egyptian capital was attacked this evening with incendiary and high explosive bombs.

The British defence ministry said combined Anglo-French air and sea operations had begun under command of Gen. Sir Charles Keightley.

First word of the attack came from Cyprus, where British and French paratroopers had been poised for nearly three months.

CD PLANNERS RUSHING PREPARATION

Citizens Get Evacuation Plan This Week; Want Volunteers

A printed evacuation plan and map will be given Greater Victoria householders in the next few days.

A practice evacuation of the city and district will be discussed at an early meeting of the local CD board.

An appeal for volunteer "block wardens" was issued today by Mayor Percy Scurrell.

Drivers were warned to keep a half-tankful of gas in their cars at all times.

In the event of evacuation, citizens of this area will be moved into the homes of up-Island residents at a ratio of three to one.

Buses, trains and ships have been arranged for in the event full-scale war comes to this area.

These were the facts reported by city and provincial civil defence heads today when presented with the question: "Is Victoria ready for war?"

There was no mention of ground forces.

The announcement said combined aerial and naval bombardments began at 6.40 p.m. Egyptian time (8.40 a.m. Victoria time) against points in the Suez Canal area.

A British-French ultimatum demanding that Egypt and Israel cease hostilities and that they withdraw their fighting forces from both sides of the canal, expired 14 hours earlier. "They dropped incendiaries and Egypt rejected the ultimatum, high explosive bombs. There were no casualties, but some material losses were caused."

Israeli Capture Egyptian Warship

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israeli forces today captured a crippled Egyptian destroyer following an air-sea engagement near Haifa which forced the ship's crew of 250 to surrender, according to Israeli sources.

Unofficial reports said Israeli rocket planes dive-bombed the 1,000-ton destroyer Ibrahim Awad as she appeared near Haifa. A white flag was swiftly hoisted, the reports said.

An air force spokesman said two Soviet-built Egyptian MiG jet fighters and a British-built Vampire jet were shot down at dawn today, bringing the total Egyptian planes lost to date in the present crisis to seven.

The actions took place as Israel accepted a joint Anglo-French ultimatum to lay down her arms providing Egypt accepted as well. But Egypt's President Nasser refused to lay down his arms in exchange for an Anglo-French promise not to occupy the Suez Canal.

AIR RAID ALARMS

Air raid sirens wailed twice during the night in the heavily populated areas of the Tel Aviv coastal strip, but there were no reports of a raid.

There was no information early today on the progress of the Israeli invasion into Egypt begun Monday night—which prompted Britain and France to serve Tuesday's ultimatum.

The Israeli spokesman said his first reports about the destroyer, which the Egyptians bought from the British navy in 1951, said it had been shelling Haifa Bay during the night without causing either casualties or damage.

Later army report said the vessel, the former Royal Navy destroyer Cottesmore, had been hit during the battle. Israeli seamen boarded the vessel and began towing her toward Haifa.

At Cairo, the high command said its air force sent Russian-built MiGs into air battles today against the Israeli air force, and claimed they downed 10 Israeli fighters for the loss of two Egyptian.

A military headquarters communique for the first time said Egyptian bombers had gone into action over Israeli territory. It said Israeli airfields were "destroyed" and others damaged.

REFUGEES WARNED

The Voice of Israel, Jerusalem radio station, warned in the refugee-packed Gaza Strip that it soon would be cut off from Egypt.

The Israelis claimed to have destroyed scores of Egyptian vehicles in air attacks on convoys east of Ismailia, and claimed their forces had reached within 10 miles of the Suez Canal, the "ultimatum" line set by Britain and France.

The Egyptian high command said the Egyptian air force was busy all day today pounding Israeli troop concentrations and convoys along the Egyptian frontier and hit 21 trucks full of soldiers, destroying seven of them.

It added that heavy fighting started Tuesday night between El Auja, strategic frontier crossroads, and Abu Oguella Abu Awugila, 15 miles to the west. The Abu Oguella position indicated the Israelis had expanded their attack to the north and west, possibly to cut off the Gaza strip. It is only about 10 miles southwest of the Gaza strip border.

There are no stockpiles of emergency supplies in cushion areas.

"But the people would be taken care of. Victoria would feed them out and as they arrive up-Island they would be fanned out three to one to the existing population."

EDEN

Egypt at this moment or if not where are they," he demanded. The prime minister rose. He said "I said yesterday..." Upstairs from the Opposition benches drowned his voice.

Pressed further by Gaitskill, to give an answer, the prime minister began: "I am not in any way prepared to give the House any details..."

There was another ear-splitting uproar from the Opposition. Members leaned forward and booed the prime minister while others yelled "resign."

All through the uproar, Sir Winston Churchill looked grim and unsmiling.

Eventually Eden said: "I am not prepared to give the House any details of the action which will follow the statement I clearly made yesterday that British and French forces will intervene in whatever strength may be needed."

"We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

The decision to intervene was given a 270-to-218 vote of confidence in the House of Commons Tuesday, mostly along party lines.

"THERE IS NO BASIS"

Labor Leader Hugh Gaitskill said: "There is nothing in the United Nations charter which justifies any nation appointing itself as world policeman. The great danger is that if we can do this so can anybody else."

Labor member Christopher Mayhew said Eden was using the Egyptian-Israeli battle as a pre- to regain control of the canal.

In defending his decision, Eden said that all he wanted was that "Anglo-French forces should move temporarily—repeat temporarily—into key positions at Port Said, Ismailia, and Suez."

"The last thing we want is an enduring commitment of that kind. We intend their presence at key points to be merely temporary."

The Times says "there are evident risks in the manner, and in the timing, of the Anglo-French counteraction which cannot be ignored." But, he adds, "boldness often pays" and "there must be every hope that it will do so now."

"ACT OF FOLLY"

The Liberal paper Manchester Guardian, viewing the move as an "act of folly," says it was made "without justification in any terms but brief expediency." It describes the move as pouring "fuel on a growing fire" and says there is no way of knowing "what kind of explosion will follow."

Supporting Eden, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says: "Never has a statesman been so soon and so fully justified in unpopular decisions as Anthony Eden has been over his military preparations in the Middle East."

FAST SUEZ MOVES KEEP TIMES SIGN MEN BUSY

The fast-moving events in the Suez situation today had Times bulletin staffers doing a merry chase attempting to keep the Times news sign at Oak Bay junction up-to-date.

For early morning traffic coming into town the sign read that landings in Suez had started. This had hardly gone up when Prime Minister Eden made it clear to the British Commons that landings hadn't yet begun. The sign was promptly changed.

But within minutes the official announcement came that bomber operations against Egyptian military installations were under way.

The sign changers went to work again.

for Britain and France to reverse their announced intention to put troops near the Suez Canal in the mid-afternoon Tuesday. The statement made clear that Eisenhower had received his first word of the British and French intentions through news dispatches.

Exchange of information between Britain and France on one hand and Washington on the other has been dropping off for some time. Some officials feel there has been a virtual black-out of communications with London.

KNE WIN ADVANCE?

U.S. state department officials are making no attempt to conceal a growing suspicion—for which apparently they have no hard evidence—that France and possibly Britain had known ahead of time of Israel's plan to launch a major military operation against Egypt.

Six of Nine Polls Favor Eisenhower

NEW YORK (CP)—Six of nine news agencies, magazines and newspapers conducting state-by-state surveys of the United States election picture predict that President Eisenhower will win when the ballots are counted next Tuesday.

The other three agree that the president is leading.

The surveys, some incomplete, vary in their forecasts of the president's probable margin of victory over Adlai Stevenson but all predict it will be closer than the 442-to-89 edge in electoral votes that Eisenhower gained over his Democratic challenger in 1952.

Time magazine gives the most optimistic view of the president's chances—a total of 384 votes to 147 for Stevenson. Estimates of Stevenson's possible strength range up to a high of 248 electoral votes.

With almost equal unanimity, the surveys predict that the Democrats will retain control of both houses of Congress.

Eisenhower has put the rest of his political schedule on a day-to-day basis.

"Needless to say," Stevenson said "this proposal was dismissed by the administration even as they are now dismissing my suggestion that we take prompt steps to stop the experimental explosion of hydrogen bombs."

"Eisenhower has put the rest of his political schedule on a day-to-day basis."

before the present state of tension, is to be held at Courtenay Saturday and Sunday to go over the detailed reception area planning and clarify instructions to the public.

Civil defence personnel have been trained as reception area chiefs in rural areas throughout the Island.

FROM OTTAWA

Maj. Gen. Stein said he could not say at what point in a war an evacuation order would come.

"It would come direct from the federal government. It might be two or three days notice; it might be more; it might be a matter of hours."

Mayor Scourrah said the Victoria district evacuation plan is ready and is now being printed. It will be distributed "in the next few days."

He said there is sufficient trained CD personnel to care for evacuation of hospitals, elderly people and the helpless.

"There are insufficient numbers to carry out the complete scheme, however," he stated. "We need several hundred volunteers to act as block wardens."

It would be their duty to keep evacuation orderly, check to see drivers had enough gas, that families carried enough clothing, food and other supplies, listed in the forthcoming handbook."

ESCAPE ROUTES

He said the handbook will also contain an evacuation map which will give direction as to escape routes from the city. He said that to the best of his knowledge buses, trains, ships have been lined up to assist in evacuating those unable to travel in private cars.

The army and navy would work in co-operation with civil defence authorities but would be prepared to take over if requested, the mayor said.

Altogether there are 500 to 600 civil defence workers now trained in the area, the mayor said. Civil defence office said there is a potential of about 3,000, including 135 police and special police to ensure against looting, a force of 200 firemen and special CD firefighters, and a potential CD medical corps of 1,000.

Ald. W. F. Pinfold, member of the control board who recently advocated a practice evacuation, said he will promote that action at a meeting to be held "as soon as possible."

A meeting was scheduled for Tuesday but was called off due to the illness of local co-ordinator Roger Peachey. He was still absent from duty today.

Ald. Pinfold said Victoria is classified as one of Canada's 13 top target areas.

need strengthening. He added in reply to further questioning that Canada did not intend to send planes or ships to the troubled area.

The ministers appeared deeply concerned as they emerged from the morning session.

Prior to the Cabinet meeting, Mr. St. Laurent told reporters that if Parliament is recalled it would not be to declare war but for the government to submit its attitude on the Middle East situation.

When they entered the Cabinet meeting neither Mr. St. Laurent nor External Affairs Minister Pearson had any information to confirm that Anglo-French forces have landed in the Suez Canal area. Later reports from London indicated that the landing had not taken place at the time the Cabinet was assembling.

UN Dismayed, Britain, France Twice Use Vetos

Blow to Council's Prestige;
Wedge in U.S.-U.K. Relations

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain and France used their vetoes twice Tuesday night to tie the hands of the United Nations Security Council in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting while they rushed troops toward the Suez Canal zone.

Their actions here and in the Mediterranean shocked and dismayed United Nations diplomats and drove a deep wedge into their alliance with the United States.

The vetoes were viewed as a hard blow to the 11-member council's prestige, already lowered by 78 Soviet vetoes in 11 years. They highlighted a council sitting lasting 12 hours, with time out only for lunch and dinner.

The council adjourned only 27 minutes before the deadline (8.30 p.m. Victoria time) set by Britain and France for Egyptian-Israeli agreement to their proposal to land troops along the waterway nationalized by Egypt July 26 if fighting did not cease in 12 hours. Israel agreed but Egypt refused.

ANOTHER MEETING

Another council meeting was scheduled for this afternoon to take up an Egyptian charge that Britain and France were committing aggression. Egypt said that until the council took necessary measures, Egypt has no choice but to defend itself.

Britain and France argued the council could not act swiftly enough to halt the fighting and prevent interference with canal traffic. Accordingly both vetoed: 1. A U.S. resolution calling on Israel and Egypt immediately to cease fire, on Israel to withdraw its armed forces from Egypt and on all UN members to avoid using force in the area or giving Israel military, economic or financial aid in her operation. The vote was 7 to 2, with Australia and Belgium abstaining.

2. A Soviet resolution that amounted to the U.S. proposal with its teeth pulled, calling only for a cease-fire and withdrawal of Israeli troops. The vote was 7 to 2 with Belgium and the U.S. abstaining.

PLEAS TURNED DOWN

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge introduced his resolution as a "first and imperative step" toward ending the fighting, and turned down pleas from Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain and Bernard Cornut-Gentille of France that he drop the proposal.

Lodge said if Israel complied with the U.S. demand, the basis for the British-French ultimatum would disappear. He rejected any implication "that the United States considered under any circumstances that the British-French ultimatum was justifiable."

Later Lodge said he had abstained from voting on the Soviet amendment because its removal of certain elements from the U.S. proposal had killed its "integrity."

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev said the Western vetoes meant "a black day for the Security Council." He accused Britain and France of using Israel as an instrument to justify seizure of the Suez Canal.

Dixon contended that Britain and France were acting in an urgent situation "on well-founded international grounds... to do what the world needs."

Louis de Guiranguad of France, sitting in for Cornut-Gentille Tuesday night, argued that Egypt's President Nasser must be stopped.

He sided with Israeli delegate Abba Eban, who said Israel was obliged to undertake the military action to wipe out commando bases inside Egypt.

Pearson Regrets UK Action While UN Discussing Crisis

Of Intervention by Telephone

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, voicing the Canadian government's reaction to the British-French armed intervention in the Middle East, said here Tuesday.

"We regret that they found it necessary to take this action," while the Security Council is considering the crisis.

Mr. Pearson was asked if he was implying criticism of the move by the British and French in sending armed forces into the Suez Canal zone following the warlike action of invading Egypt by Israel.

"No, I am implying no criticism. I am merely saying that the British and French state that they considered it 'necessary' and we regret that they found it 'necessary' to take such action while the Security Council of the UN was discussing the matter," Mr. Pearson said.

He spoke at a tense press conference convened at the request of members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery to discuss the explosive situation in the Suez.

He said it was unlikely Canada would become involved in a shooting war because of the developments.

Mr. Pearson, in reply to questions, also dealt with developments in Hungary and Poland.

"Nothing that has happened since the Second World War is more important than the emergency of the forces of liberty in Hungary and Poland," he said.

It was significant that those in the forefront of the movement towards greater freedom from their Russian Communist masters, were students, he said.

The Russian Communists had concentrated on students in seeking to establish permanent control but the uprisings had shown that a spirit of liberty animated the people of those two countries behind the Iron Curtain.

"It is apparent that in a spiritual sense they have gained nothing under a Communist regime," he said.

Other points made by Mr. Pearson during the press conference:

(1)—Sale and shipment of 24 Sabre jets to Israel was under review by the Canadian government. Its decision will depend upon action taken by the United Nations.

(2)—Canada was not consulted in advance by Britain before the United Kingdom decided to dispatch troops to the Suez zone. Canada first learned of Britain's decision when the Canadian High Commissioner to the U.K. in London called Mr. Pearson by long-distance telephone Tuesday.

(3)—Mr. Pearson associated himself with the statement by President Eisenhower in which the president expressed the "strong hope" that the matter could be settled without the use of force.

(4)—Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of the UN truce supervision organization, is reporting directly to the UN on the hostilities and has not been in touch with his home government of Canada. Mr. Pearson said the Canadian government did not expect a report from Gen. Burns, it would properly go to the UN.

(5)—Arrangements are being made in co-operation with the United States to move Canadians out of the danger areas who are not in essential jobs. There are 70 in Egypt, 30 in Syria, four in Jordan and 31 in Israel.

Boost for Tory Hopes

A DEFINITE TREND AGAINST the Liberal Party in Maritime politics, both provincial and federal, emerges from yesterday's upset election in Nova Scotia. Mr. Hicks, the Liberal leader, ascribes his defeat to local factors, such as the decline in the coal industry, and says it is "temporary"; but it would be extremely unwise for Liberals generally to dismiss this setback in a casual manner. They are in trouble.

In recent provincial elections the Liberals have held Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, but their losses in the other Maritimes provinces seem certain to be reflected in the next federal poll. It will be surprising indeed if the St. Laurent Government does not suffer substantial losses in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The Conservative Party at Ottawa has every right to be encouraged.

It is too early to say, however, that a national trend against the federal government has been revealed by the Conservative successes in the three provincial elections of Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The Ontario voters have long supported their able provincial government under Premier Frost while voting Liberal in national affairs. The Conservative Government of New Brunswick deserved re-election on its own merits. Only in Nova Scotia has any sitting provincial government been defeated during the last two years. There alone have the voters indicated any strong protest against existing conditions.

After these local tests of opinion — apart from Nova Scotia — the federal Government may well argue that a public, pretty well satisfied with things as they are, will return the Liberal Party to national power next June. But the Government will be unwise to accept any such easy assumption.

While federal and provincial politics occupy two distinct compartments in the electoral mind the Government cannot shrug off the fact that the Liberal Party has been defeated, within two years, in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Provincially it holds only Manitoba, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, all relatively small provinces.

The only safe conclusion to be drawn from these facts is that the St. Laurent Government has a fight on its hands.

To be sure, no Opposition Party is yet within sight of office and none can win so long as Quebec is solidly behind the Government. But the Government could suffer substantial losses, especially in Ontario.

Its mis-management of the last parliamentary session has damaged it. Its posture of complacency is out of date and should be immediately abandoned. Events must compel the Prime Minister, after a period of withdrawal, to resume his active leadership of Government, Party and nation.

The Big Budget

PREMIER BENNETT SAYS HIS next budget will be the largest in British Columbia's history. This is no surprise. Our provincial budgets have been increasing every year as they must in a growing province. They have been increasing faster than the province's growth, as they can when the Government maintains the highest taxes in Canada.

Quite properly, Mr. Bennett declines to forecast the figures of the next budget. The public has no right to expect this information, or the Government's taxation policies, until the annual budget speech is delivered.

There is another matter on which the public deserves but is not getting information. Mr. Bennett will not tell it how much money he is currently collecting and spending. No one but the Government itself knows where our provincial affairs stand today.

The Federal Government issues, every month, a statement showing exactly how much money it has collected in that month and how much it has spent. Every citizen knows where our national affairs stand from month to month.

Why is the British Columbia Government so much less candid than the national Government? Mr. Bennett is always asserting that Social Credit, unlike other parties, confides in the people and hides nothing from them. Yet it stubbornly hides its current financial position. It refuses to let the public know about its own business and its own money between budget speeches.

In national politics the public, given the facts at frequent intervals, can debate budget policies intelligently in advance and public opinion is thus brought to bear upon those policies. In British Columbia there is no such opportunity. Mr. Bennett keeps the public's most important business to himself until he is ready to reveal it once a year. Then he introduces a budget which the Legislature obediently approves and that's that.

All the public knows at the moment is that Mr. Bennett's Government is enjoying unprecedented opulence. Its revenues are gigantic, as they ought to be at the present tax level. Recently, in a moment of can-nor, Mr. Bennett remarked that his revenue surplus this year was so large that he almost feared to divulge it to the voters. He needn't be afraid. The public will bear that news with fortitude.

To be sure, a revenue surplus is sometimes politically embarrassing to a government but the embarrassment is temporary. A sensible public has no wish to see its government incurring deficits at a time of unexampled prosperity. The only practical question here is how the government handles its surplus.

The present federal surplus is being used deliberately to reduce the national debt and to hold down the total money supply when it tends to exceed the supply of goods and foment inflation.

Mr. Bennett's surplus, it is to be supposed (though we shall not know for sure until the next budget speech) is being spent as fast as it is collected. Unlike the federal surplus it thus represents nothing but a demand for goods and to that extent is inflationary.

However, if we are to have provincial spending at its present rate it is far better to spend current revenue for capital works like roads than to raise this money by borrowing—especially at the present high cost of money.

Since Mr. Bennett has not been borrowing in the money markets of late, we assume that he is able to finance huge capital works out of his revenue surplus and perhaps by temporary bank borrowings.

Quite rightly, he does not wish to float public loans while interest rates are high and will wait until they drop, if he can. Meanwhile he is denouncing high interest rates—an essential weapon against inflation—as an evil invention by a Federal Government determined to precipitate a depression.

Mr. Bennett's inflationist views are another matter. Apart altogether from his quarrel with the Federal Government (the overture to his campaign in the next national election) the fact remains that the Federal Government gives us the current facts of our business. Mr. Bennett refuses to give them.

Warning on Slums

VICTORIANS, WHO NEVER tire of praise for their homes and gardens, have been brought up short by a planning expert.

Prof. Ira M. Robinson of the U.B.C. says three areas in the city are bordering on the slum stage. The streets in certain regions, he says, give an appearance of dereliction. A census discloses inadequate bathroom facilities. And, he points out, blight areas have a tendency to become a drag on municipal financing because they do not provide tax revenue equivalent to the services which they necessitate.

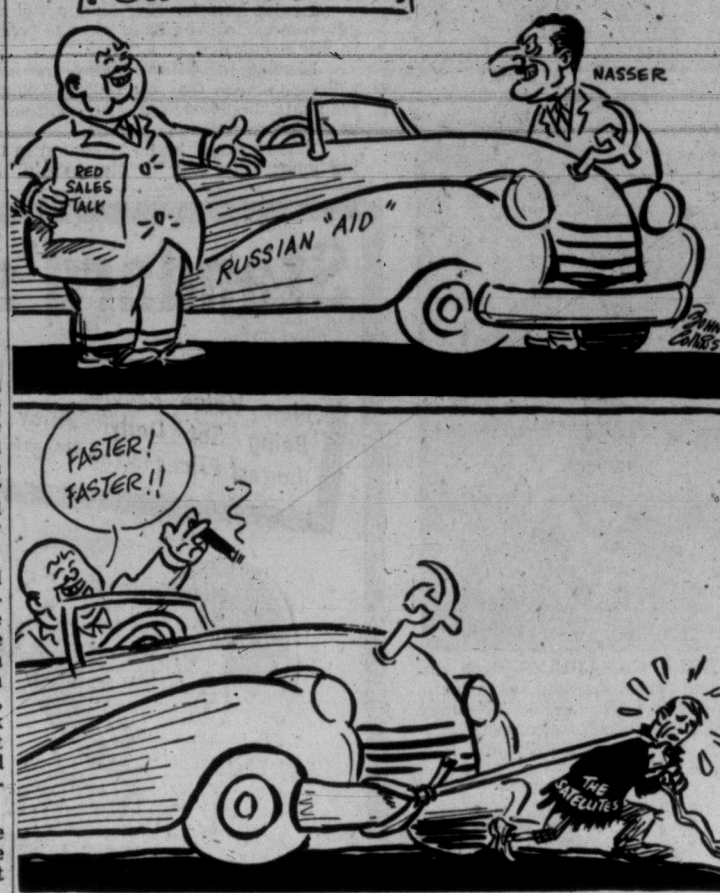

These are shocking statements to Victorians.

Beautification grants are planned for various projects to make this an even more beautiful capital. While they are being contemplated the attention of the citizens is drawn to the fact that one of the worst features of deterioration is already threatening the town.

In various other parts of the nation—and province—attention is being given to slum clearance. Maybe Victoria should come in from the garden and do a little serious thinking on the need for similar activity here.

GREEN SURVIVAL

By B. A. TOBIN

The Eternal Force

THROUGH a tiny hole in the metal casing of a coffee shop window a minute sprout of green appears. Moistened by condensed steam running down the inside of the window pane, a grass seed has taken root inside the casing and is thrusting a speck of green through the hole towards the light. Its prospects of existence are small. It cannot be rooted in more than a pinch of dust. A dust cloth or vacuum cleaner will threaten its life periodically. Even if overlooked for a while it cannot achieve more than a silver of green life in its present position. It's a "dead-end kid" of the grass world; it was licked before it started. Yet it lives, and fights for more life, just as much as though it were a man, a giant of the forest, a great commercial city, or a nation.

Tobin

Unlimited Strength

The urge to live is a terrible thing. In all the vastness of the cosmos nature has unleashed no more relentless force, no more unremitting pressure. The survival capabilities of the single cell, almost ignored by a creature so high in the scale as man, defy description.

In a universe so poorly adapted for the continuance of life, surrounded by physical enemies, by chemical poisons, by lethal rays, the cell has persevered from the dawn of life—growing, dividing, growing, dividing—in an unending chain from creation to the present.

A thousand crises must have had it on the brink of disaster. Changes of temperature, inundations, droughts, disappearance of nourishment—all these it survived, until it covered the globe with its teeming forms and found in multiplicity and diversity the secret of earthly immortality.

No Ending

Today the struggle has spread to an unimaginable extent. The lowly cell has learned co-operation and community living. From grass blade to 200-foot cedar, from ant to elephant, it has built more mighty mansions, incredible masterpieces of protoplasmic architecture.

But it is a struggle in which there can be no surcease, no victory, no end. The urge to live must go on, each individual community of cells vying with those of its own kind as well as with other life forms to grow, to procreate, to maintain the constant thread of its own heritage through the great warp and weft of life.

That struggle can become murderous; the competition is for existence itself. A field of daisies is a glorious sight, yet each small plant spreads its leaves to get more sunlight at the expense of its neighbor, strains to extend its tiny roots to win the moisture its neighbor could use, spends its beautiful life in a grim, silent struggle against death from suffocation in the crowd.

Vital Links

The field mouse feeds and mates, in an almost mechanical process of sustaining its own life to the ultimate breath and ensuring that the chain of life in which it is a vital link shall be extended. How many lesser things it kills, how many deaths from larger predators it dodges, only its instinctive abilities will determine.

In its humble way it is the prototype of all the community of living things—its destiny to feed, to escape, to procreate, at last to die.

Of all the creatures, only man has significantly changed the cycle. In some small measure he has eased life of its burden. Only in desperate circumstances—in which a considerable proportion of mankind still lives—does he kill his neighbor for gain.

Through a benign quality which needs constant encouragement he will help the weak instead of turning on them; he will spare the helpless even though their death would benefit him.

Most Deadly

Only when the pressure becomes too great does he revert to the savagery of life in the amoebic world of the roadside pond, to the barbarism of the jungle, the dog-eat-dog principle of the wilderness. Then he can become more deadly than all the lethal adventurers of the lower orders. He will transcend even the basic law of nature: he will destroy himself to destroy his enemy.

The same holds true of man the group as of man the individual. As a family, a tribe, a nation or a commonwealth, man portrays the same elemental principles. And as the individual has risen to such qualities as mercy and justice, sympathy and altruism, so have the larger groups.

But they, too, can revert, through fear, through greed or blind brutality. And today, like the individual, the nation too can destroy itself in destroying its enemy, and in destroying itself it could destroy the world.

But the great universe of plants and animals continues. The leaves thrust through the crack in the rock, the tree grasps the bare mountain peak with hungry roots, and the blade of grass pokes through a chance hole beside a window. There is no surrender.

As Our Readers See It

National Health Service

I should be interested to hear Sir Hugh Winsted try and substantiate his claim that the people in Britain are well satisfied with the National Health Service. It is well known that litigation against hospital authorities and doctors has risen seven hundred per cent since the service started in 1948. This of course does not include the hundreds of complaints received annually by the local executive councils.

Sir Hugh might have informed his Canadian audience about the cost of this welfare state. Income tax now runs at 40c for each dollar earned. In addition there is a sales tax of 66.23 per cent on most goods sold and 100 per cent on such luxury goods as perfume and jewellery. National Health Insurance contributions are paid weekly by every employee who is also accountable for local rates and taxes.

Little wonder that Britain's gold and dollar reserves sink monthly, that the bank rate is highest since the dirty 30's, and that two budgets were required in 1955 to bolster the economy. Mr. Paul Martin is well advised to keep the price of National Health from the public. What mystifies me is why a Conservative MP comes to Canada to preach pandemic socialism.

In Freedom

We may readily see the great differences as to freedom and individual rights there are when we compare such countries as Britain and the Commonwealth nations, North America, Scandinavia, West Germany, Holland, etc. with others such as the Soviet Republic and its Satellite nations, France and Southern Europe, and South America, etc.

Making due allowances for racial differences and past inheritances it must be admitted that the reason for these marked differences is in their treatment of the Bible. The nations first named, despite their many faults and failings have respected that Book, and given freedom to its use according to each person's conscience, thus developing also a spirit of democracy.

But those other countries had for centuries allowed religious systems to prey upon and oppress the people, war against the Bible and its followers, thus individual rights were not tolerated.

In France this very program went on, many of her best citizens fled the country, thousands were put to death till at last the French Revolution took place and the Bible and Christianity were forbidden. So that in the words of another writer, "Unhappy France reaped in blood the harvest she had sown," from which France has never recovered.

In Russia also a similar religious power continued for centuries to dominate the nation, keeping the people in ignorance and denying them their rights. It was not till the First World War that a number of leaders in Russia revolted, deposing the Czarist government, abolishing the National church and opposing the Bible and all Christian teachings.

This was the beginning of the present Soviet rule whose atheistic ideologies are being spread fast everywhere. The aftermath of this is current news today in Poland, and Hungary where again scenes of bloodshed follow.

The lesson we should learn is that the Bible, if given freedom, can bring its message of hope, light, and freedom, but when it is rejected, darkness, oppression and trouble inevitably result.

After 2,000 Years

Some correspondents in your recent issues question the statements of H. V. O'Reilly and of Marian N. Sherman that there is a growing trend away from the churches and especially the statement that there will be no congregations in 50 years time and that the churches will be "for sale."

Perhaps the latter statement is too optimistic as regards the time mentioned. There are so many people directly or indirectly making a living from organized religion that there will be plenty of propaganda, such as revival meetings, to attempt to maintain a flock of believers in mysticism and supernaturalism. However, that will only delay the decay of what is a dying business.

No doubt, in the distant past, the believers in the gods of Egypt, Greece and Rome and the attendants of their temples never thought that their beliefs could fade away and their temples become ruins for lack of believers to maintain them.

However, then as now, with increasing knowledge, teachings which no longer satisfied people's minds or reasoning died out.

TREND.

Business Licences

Alderman Don Smith is quoted in a recent press report as saying that he will find out why some business firms are apparently excused from paying licences and others left off with a token fee. A good idea Mr. Smith.

If our taxes can be reduced two mills by making our bigger business firms pay their share, let's have it.

The fact that one store pays only $3,000 in Victoria and $40,000 for its slightly bigger store in Vancouver is astounding. These people do a good business here and enjoy all our city services and benefits.

Property owners certainly pay their full share in ever increasing amounts. Hoping to hear more from Mr. Smith.

Surprisingly Different

THERE is too much "sugar coating" and too much "soothing syrup" voiced by commentators on the relationships that exist between the United States and Canada. A disservice was being done to both countries by those who seek to overemphasize the common denominators between Canada and its southern neighbor, in the opinion of the United States Ambassador to Canada, Livingston Merchant.

In fact he has found that in many respects Canadians and Americans are "surprisingly" different. He made this point when he spoke recently to the Canadian Club in Toronto. There were differences in culture, in institutions and in points of view.

He made this point when he spoke recently to the Canadian Club in Toronto. There were differences in culture, in institutions and in points of view.

Campaign

The American ambassador declared he was going to make a personal contribution to keeping the relations between our two countries in good repair. As his contribution he is launching a campaign against the sort of oratory that asserts that Canadians and Americans are exactly alike and that the 4,000-mile border is undefended because by Divine dispensation Canadians and Americans always think alike and never disagree.

Agreement

But while there were many points on which Americans and Canadians might disagree, there was one point on which Mr. Merchant agreed wholeheartedly with a Canadian sentiment. That sentiment was voiced recently in Chicago by Canada's trade and commerce minister, Mr. Howe. The minister suggested that U.S. corporations establishing branch plants or developing natural resources in Canada should provide opportunities both for a Canadian share in the ownership and for Canadians competent to hold technical and professional positions.

Disagreement

One point on which Mr. Merchant indicated there could not be agreement with Canada's viewpoint was the matter of the U.S. "tied-in" future wheat sales—part of its surplus agricultural disposal program. Under this provision countries taking advantage of the American surplus commodities plan of exchanging surplus wheat for local currencies must undertake to make some future purchases from the United States.

Canada has protested to Washington against this provision. Canadian officials only became aware of its operation last August. Ambassador Merchant disclosed it had figured in American agreement with a dozen countries for over two years. Canada had indeed apparently been asleep at the switch.

Significance

Significantly, Ambassador Merchant conceded that there had been damage done to Canada's wheat exports by the U.S. surplus disposal program. He believed however that the harm was temporary and it was his hope that the damage had been less than some had believed.

War

Another skirmish has developed in the almost continual political battle that waxes hot and cold between Quebec and Ottawa. Prime Minister St. Laurent fired the first salvo at Sherbrooke in Quebec when he declared his intention of doubling the Canadian university grants from $8,000,000 to $16,000,000. Recognizing that Premier Duplessis had warned the universities against accepting federal educational aid, the prime minister worked out a formula by which the money would be forthcoming from the University Council.

But the Quebec premier was adamant. In a blunt statement he rejected the prime minister's plan. In an equally forthright reply the prime minister appealed to the Quebec universities to go over the head of Duplessis and take the financial assistance which they badly need.

Pressure

Prime Minister St. Laurent clearly saw the pressure that would be exerted on Premier Duplessis by the Quebec universities. Mr. St. Laurent worked on his Sherbrooke speech carefully and was hopeful that his new formula would appeal to the Quebec institutions to such an extent that they would defy the premier.

Upshot was that Quebec university students marched on the Legislative Buildings in Quebec City demanding to see the premier and present their arguments in favor of accepting the financial grants. Even if Premier Duplessis prevents the Quebec universities from receiving the added financial aid, the money will be available to the Quebec universities, when the time comes that they feel free to accept the money.

Clarification

One point the prime minister made in his original Sherbrooke speech that caused consternation in other provinces was that the doubled grants would be forthcoming only if Quebec universities accepted them. In effect this would have meant that Premier Duplessis could, by his obstinate attitude, veto the increased aid to all Canadian universities. However, in response to persistent queries from reporters on that point, Mr. St. Laurent quickly altered his position and declared, upon his return to Ottawa, that the additional aid for universities across Canada was not contingent upon Quebec universities accepting the increased grants.

Stamps

The Retail Merchants' Association is worried about the inroads that the trading stamp operators have made into Canada. The high pressure stamp operators are now in the U.S. retail grocery trade on a large scale. They have gained a foothold in Ontario and are setting up an organization ready to move into Winnipeg and the rest of western Canada.

The RMA wants the federal or provincial governments to act to stop the operators from invading all of Canada. Trading stamps are covered by a section of the Criminal Code which makes certain stamp operations illegal.

The RMA wants a test case but the provincial authorities so far have declined to initiate such a case in the courts. The RMA is reluctant to launch an action on its own for fear that it might lose and have to pay heavy court costs. Meantime, the stamp operators are becoming "big business."

Nicholas Lost His Head

LONDON—Names that make news... NICHOLAS MONSARRAT has been getting a going-over from the critics re his new novel, "The Tribe That Lost Its Head." Not all the critics have been unkind but those who were really ripped it to bits, including comments that it was very heavy weather and unnecessarily detailed in the sex, orgy passages and a scathing review from critic Nancy Spain, who talked of "... the awful stuff he writes ... it is such a silly, bitter, venomous book."

This prompted Peter Simple, who writes a bright column for the Daily Telegraph, to write a new chorus for the current hit song "Ce Sara":

Monsarrat sara,
Whatever will be will be—
There's always The Cruel Sea;
Monsarrat sara.

But despite this, Monsarrat is feeling no pain in the bookshops. The long (250,000 words), involved novel (retitled "The Tribe That Lost Its Head" by one sour critic) is selling like hotcakes. At the end of its first week 100,000 had been unloaded, with the publisher reprinting furiously. A long way off the 950,000 copies sold of "The Cruel Sea" in this country—an all-time record for a British novel—but on the way.

JOAN CRAWFORD has a link with Monsarrat in that she is now out at Shepperton Studios making the movie of his story of Esther Costello. This is her first British film but she has starred in a few films before. To be exact—72 of them!

LIBERACE: His arrival created one of the most hectic displays of public fervor (or as they now call it here—fan frenzy) ever seen in and around Waterloo Station and produced the height of something or other when fans fought to kiss his train window with him kissing the other side of the glass.

But for me the general English attitude to this gentleman was summed up in a conversation I overheard today in a bus. Said one woman: "Did you see Liberace on television last night?" Said the other: "No." Said the first woman: "What a carry-on!"

* NOEL COWARD has now taken his taunting of Britain's income tax collectors just about as far as it can go. Having had the first night of his new play, Nude With Violin (title is from the name of a painting about which there is argument as to whether it's genuine), placed in Dublin so that he could attend without setting foot on U.K. soil, he flew over a big stretch of England going from France to Dublin. Inland revenue people on the ground longed for the plane to be forced down by weather so that they could nab him.

No such luck, but they're now debating whether they will bring a test case against him since—like a Soviet pilot who flies over a country of the West—he has technically come into U.K. territory.

YOUR HEALTH

The Tragedy of Mental Disease

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation.

In a previous column I wrote about a marvellous book in which Mike Gorman, executive director of the National Mental Health Committee, tells of the alarming situation that exists in regard to mental disease. The other day, on the street, a woman with a can in her hand asked me for money for research on some disease so rare that I haven't seen a case in 30 years! Now, I am all for spending money for a search for a cure of any now incurable disease, but I hate to see the almost complete lack of research on the commonest disease of all—the one that costs people more suffering than any other. Canadians not only have to pay for research on this disease, but we don't want even to hear mention of insanity; and we do not want to admit what everyone knows, that it is inherited. To keep up our courage most of us lie manfully about this.

I do not blame charitable foundations for having refused in the past to give money for research when it might have gone to men of the type who know before they begin how their so-called research will come out. It will consist purely of theories. Fortunately, at last a new day has dawned, and a new group of biologically trained psychiatrists is coming to the fore—men who are brain physiologists, who are at home in a laboratory, and who are accepted by all scientists as good and able brethren.

On page 13 of his book Gorman says he is well aware that he will be criticized for his "excessive" emphasis upon the physiological and hereditary factors underlying mental illness. He says: "I am prepared to be read out of the Inner Temple by the high priests of the Oedipus Complex and the rampant id. For a number of years I was an active communicant in that temple, cocking an attentive ear while its theologians concocted a 'witches brew' of sterile terminology to describe psychiatric phenomena they had no capability of treating."

He goes on to say that he expects to be attacked by that "horde of self-constituted 'experts' on human behavior; the blithe popu-larizers who fear not to tread where scientists are wary to walk. Fortified by a massive ignorance of the physiology of the human mind and nervous system, they lecture, write, preach, and advise about juvenile delinquency, thumb-sucking, marriage, and so on."

Mr. Gorman quotes Dr. Karl Menninger as once pointing out that psychoanalytic indoctrination has had a bad effect on many a young psychiatrist because it has kept him from observing his patients and studying them with open eyes and ears. Why should the young doctor talk to patients and record what they say when he knows in advance what they should or will say? As Dr. Alan Gregg, the distinguished former medical head of the Rockefeller Foundation once said, too many psychiatrists have speculated about insanity when they should have been observing. "Psychiatrists speak a dialect, a special lingo, more productive of resentment than comprehensive or interest on the part of their medical brethren." Dr. Gregg went on to say that psychoanalysts usually resent requests for proof of their theories. Dr. Jacques Gottlieb, a research psychiatrist, appearing before a U.S. Congressional committee, doubted if what some analysis have called research can be dignified with that name.

Perhaps now that real scientific research is being done in psychiatry, legislatures, foundations and wealthy persons will be willing to give money to support it. I hope so. Nowhere else in the field of medicine is financial help more needed.

THROBBING IN THE EARS OF OLDER PERSONS

Many older persons worry because, when they put their ear on the pillow, they hear a thumping. Some of them keep going from one ear specialist to another wasting hundreds of dollars. The specialist cannot help them because their ear is normal. Actually, what they hear is the pulsation in the big blood vessel which goes through a channel in the bone that houses the inner ear. Why we don't all of us keep hearing the thumping, I do not know.

Obviously, there is nothing anyone can do to stop the thumping; the heart must continue to beat. What is hopeful is that the beat can again become inaudible. I know because, in my own case, for a while the sound was annoying, and later it disappeared.

Winter Pot Plants Need Tending Now

Winter flowering pot plants need a little assistance at this time of the year if they are to give us the satisfying display of bloom which we expect.

Considering the more commonly grown ones, there is one group which requires good strong light, but no artificial light after sundown.

The Persian cyclamen, poinsettia, Christmas flowering cactus and the winter flowering Lorrairie begonias would all thrive on an eight-hour day of sunshine, but after sunset they require darkness to bring them into flower.

Once flowering has commenced they get along very well in our living rooms with artificial light during the evenings. Lacking sufficient sunshine, indoor gardeners may bring these favorite plants to the bloom stage by placing them under electric light during the day. A gooseneck lamp, for instance, with a 60-watt bulb, 15 inches from the plant will assist in bud development. Be sure sufficient water is given the plants, not too much nor too little. The amount will depend on the heat and humidity of the home.

Fertilizer is generally applied to these plants in small amounts (a teaspoon of dry balanced fertilizer to a gallon of water) every 10 days, after buds can be seen.

Taper off the feedings as color develops in the buds, and discontinue until another batch is forming as in the case of cyclamen.

The azaleas, which are grown as pot plants, need rather different care. Buds are already formed on those to flower for Christmas, and they need all the light they can get. Instead of a general fertilizer, they require the acid-mix feeding as used for outdoor acid-loving plants.

A layer of wet peat moss on top of the soil of the pot, and frequent syringing of the foliage with tepid water are additional treats for house bound azaleas.

Mayor To Ask 3-Year Limit On Basin Rule

City council will be asked by Mayor Percy Scourah next week to extend to three years the period in which owners of house-keeping rooms must bring them up to required standards.

Last week, 280 owners were told they should comply within six months with regulations which require a sink be installed in every room in which cooking is permitted.

Health officials said about 280 owners would be affected. They own a total of 775 housekeeping units which house 1,000 people.

The sinks have been a city requirement since 1949 but the regulation was never enforced. Owners complained the necessity to install the new plumbing was a hardship and would result in increased rent for the occupants of their premises or, in some cases, their eviction.

The mayor said today he met with sanitary officials and representatives of the owners.

"I objected to the limit of six months for compliance. I felt it would create a hardship. While desirable, it was not urgent. It has been in abeyance seven years."

"I agreed I would ask council to place a limit of three years for conversion and require that any housekeeping rooms licensed in the future must comply before licence is granted," said the mayor.

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF IT, JIM?

"Yes—this NEW Star Weekly is really something! How do you like its compact tabloid size, isn't it so convenient?"

"Indeed it is—and say the Picture section is a real treat—Those colorings and sequence arrangements of the pictures are beautiful."

"The articles and stories in the magazine sections also appeal to me and you should hear the wife rave about the fashions and recipes and the complete Novel."

"I'll bet you went for the comics too—I did! There are four more pages, you know."

"I sure did—but of course the kids got to them first."

"Well, the new Star Weekly is a swell job."

Tories Capture Nova Scotia—First Time in 23 Years

HALIFAX (CP)—The first Progressive Conservative government in 23 years and the third since Confederation was elected Tuesday in Nova Scotia by a narrow majority.

Defeated Liberal Premier Hicks immediately indicated that re-counts will be asked for in some seats. In at least 10 constituencies the majority was 105 or fewer.

Premier Hicks won personal victory in Annapolis East.

Progressive Conservative chief-tain Robert L. Stanfield led his party to its first victory in a provincial election since the Liberals swept to power under the late Angus L. Macdonald in 1933.

The result compared with the last election:

PCs	23	12
Liberals	19	23
CCF	1	2
Total	43	37

Six legislature seats were added in a 1955 redistribution.

Progressive Conservatives, Quebec the Union Nationale, Saskatchewan the CCF, British Columbia Social Credit and Newfoundland the Liberals. Not since 1890 have six provinces voted in one year.

One of the biggest surprises was the Progressive Conservative victories in five out of six Cape Breton seats. A party spokesman said labor unrest contributed to the victories.

Premier-elect Stanfield, tall, angular and reserved in bearing, is the lawyer son of a former Nova Scotia lieutenant-governor, and a brother of Frank Stanfield, a Progressive Conservative member of Parliament from 1945 to 1953.

He took the leadership in 1948, when the PCs had no seats in the legislature.

In the election of the 42-year-old Mr. Stanfield, Nova Scotia still boasts the youngest Canadian premier. Premier Hicks, a former Rhodes scholar, is 41.

Four cabinet ministers lost their seats: Agriculture Minister Colin Chisholm, Attorney-General Malcolm Paterson; Trade Minister Wilfred Dauphinee and Highways Minister Arthur W. MacKenzie.

VOTE DOWN SLIGHTLY
A preliminary count showed the total vote down slightly from 1953. Progressive Conservatives received 49 per cent compared with 44 per cent three years ago.

The figures (percentages in brackets): Progressive Conservatives 138,842 (49), Liberals 156,648 (48), CCF 9,899 (3), others 813 (—).

Both old parties ran full slates of 43 candidates. The CCF contested 11 ridings. One Independent Liberal lost his deposit along with eight CCF nominees and one Conservative.

CCF leader Michael MacDonald won in Cape Breton Centre, but his only CCF colleague in the last House bowed to a Progressive Conservative.

VICTORIANS' VIEWPOINT

Quick UN Action Needed in Mid-East

Victorians almost without exception were disturbed and worried today about the Suez Canal crisis, but had little constructive to suggest other than to agree the United Nations should take over the situation as quickly as possible.

President of the synagogue here, A. E. Alexander, 2800 Lincoln, refused to pass an opinion "one way or the other. I'm only a layman."

Mrs. Bessie Tully, 294 Stewart, said "the only thing I hope is that there's not going to be another war."

V. A. Beaumont, 2300 Douglas, said "somebody should take a big stick, step in, and stop the fighting."

Sandy Irwin, 1219 Oscar, said: "The UN should take fast action before more trouble develops."

Mrs. R. S. Vaughan, 3017 Larkdowne, said "war accomplishes nothing and anything that can be done to solve the affair in the east is advisable."

Mrs. G. K. Verley, 2595 Lansdowne, said: "There's certainly a crisis there and the UN should not delay action."

Mrs. D. E. Woodsworth, Prospect Lake, said "all I know is that the situation is alarming."

TELL US WHY

John S. Yeomans, 3188 Shelbourne, said: "I don't know who is right or who is wrong, but there seems to be a lot more behind it than we read. They tell what the troops are doing, but not why."

E. R. Bellas, 2601 Burdick, said "if fighting is the only solution, then that's the way it has to be, though we'd all like to see a peaceful settlement."

Mrs. Mortimer Raelis, 3007 Quadra, said: "I am at a loss for an opinion right now. It does seem grim. I hope there will be a peaceful solution before long. It seems we've put up a struggle for our inevitable little bit and everything has gone against us. The Gaza Strip has belonged to Israel since the beginning of time, yet there has always been conflict about it. We're not out to get anything from anyone that doesn't belong to us. I'd even go out there right now to fight to keep our own homeland. We have a right as a nation to maintain that which was rightfully given to us. It seems that for all time we've been persecuted and shoved around. We won't stand for it."

Meanwhile, James George, prominent Victoria Progressive Conservative, in a telegram to Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent, urged Canada's support of Israel "in her fight for freedom against the united forces of Egypt, Jordan and Syria."

"The threat of aggression exemplified in the combined Arab military strength is continued in spite of UN warnings. Israel is fighting for her existence and deserves the support of all freedom loving nations. Canada can, and should help Israel at this hour."

BIGGEST PORTION
The land surface of North America is 8,500,000 square miles, compared to 6,814,000 for South America.

MOUNTAIN RANGE NEAR JASPER NAMED IN CHURCHILL'S HONOR

EDMONTON (CP)—A 200-mile-square mountain range in Jasper National Park will be named the Winston Churchill range in honor of the British wartime prime minister, Mines Minister Prudham has announced. The range is in the south end of the park, just south of the Queen Elizabeth range.

"DAD—WHAT DOES VENI, VIDI, VICI MEAN?"

"Wow son, where in the world did you get that?"

"Well today at school, at lunch time—two of the teachers were looking over the NEW Star Weekly—and one of them said that."

"Oh—that's where you get it? Eh? Well son, it's Latin and Caesar said it after one of his conquests—it means 'I came, I saw, I conquered'."

"What's that to do with the new Star Weekly, Dad?"

"I guess it was teacher's way of saying that the NEW Star Weekly is a winner. It came out this week—Millions saw it—and it is really a winner!"

"I see—well let me go and buy a copy right now, I want the comics."

Hospital Deadlock Unchanged—Scurrah

Mayor Percy Scurrah today saw obstacles in the path of a proposed spring vote for a new $1,400,000 Royal Jubilee Hospital wing.

President of the hospital board of directors, Frank G. Mulliner said Tuesday he didn't think there would be much trouble in municipal sharing of the costs not covered by government grants and the hospital board.

But the mayor says Greater Victoria is deadlocked on this question. There can be no vote until the deadlock is broken.

"I understand the hospital negotiated with finance committee for two years without agreement. The committee took the stand the city had invested half a million dollars in that hospital. It still owes $150,000 or $200,000 in bonds. By the time these are paid the city's investment will be $700,000 while the outside municipalities, which use the hospital the same as the city, have invested a smaller amount.

"In view of the fact there are plenty of beds for people of the city, the finance committee took the stand there should be a greater percentage paid by the other municipalities."

It was proposed in a hospital board breakdown that Victoria pay 49.3 per cent of the $325,000 due from this area, Saanich pay 27.3, Esquimalt 9.7, Oak Bay 11.5 and adjoining territories 2.2 per cent.

FIRST TWO MEMBERS of the next legislature were sworn in Tuesday. Mrs. Buda Brown (left) is Social Credit member for Vancouver Point Grey. Sacred Tom Bate was re-elected in Vancouver Point Grey.

FEDERAL CIVIL SERVANTS

New Drive Launched
On Bargaining Right

Initial steps to obtain bargaining rights for Canada's federal civil servants will be taken at a meeting in Ottawa next month.

National Council of the Civil Service Federation, which claims membership among more than a dozen civil service organizations, hopes to increase its members to represent a majority of all civil servants.

The federation now has no right to bargain for wages or working conditions with the government. Representatives may only make submissions to the federal cabinet.

Attending the meeting for National Defence Employees' Association will be James Bryant, of Victoria, national vice-president of NDEA.

Mr. Bryant said the federation, with 60,000 members, will try for a greater proportion of the 140,000 federal civil servants. With about 60 per cent membership, the federation could state it represents the majority of Canada's civil servants.

Another major point to be discussed will be extension of the five-day work week to all federal civil servants.

The 34-member council will

TORONTO (CP)—Donald Fleming's campaign for the national leadership of the Conservative party was endorsed Tuesday night by Education Minister Dunlop of Ontario. Mr. Dunlop spoke at a reception for Mr. Fleming, who is MP for Toronto Eglinton.

NO LONGER IRREGULAR

"My husband was sick with constipation for years," writes Mrs. B. Crowley, Gladstone, Man. "He tried most everything without success. After 2 months with All-Bran he's a different, happier man and so glad he's regular again."

Good-tasting Kellogg's All-Bran has been helping folks overcome constipation due to lack of bulk for two generations. Why not you? All-Bran gets at the common cause of irregularity: lack of bulk in the foods we eat. Kellogg's—the original ready-to-eat whole bran. Delicious with milk and very inexpensive. For gentle, natural regularity.

'BROTHERHOOD OF MINDS THROUGH BOOKS'

Victorians Good Readers, Says Leading Bibliophile

By TONY DICKASON

A refined man, R. D. Hilton Smith likes reading books about books.

He is the sort of critic who is critical of the critics.

Mr. Smith, one of Canada's outstanding librarians, operates the Adelphi Book Shop here at $22 1/2 Port. The name of his shop comes from the Greek "adelphoi" meaning "brothers."

It is the brotherhood of minds through books that interests the proprietor.

Mr. Smith is one of those oddities entitled "well known in literary circles both in Canada and the United Kingdom."

But he's as un-stuffy as a dedicated owl.

He is former chairman of the Governor-General's Awards Board which, while not meaning much to the average wood-cutter, is of high importance to Canadian culture.

The board is responsible for literary awards in fiction, creative, non-fiction, children's books, humor, popular biography, short stories, poems, scholarly articles and outstanding general articles and a few more, plus a $1,000 yearly award for the "best first novel" by a Canadian.

SWIMS IN BOOKS

Needless to say, Mr. Smith enjoys books. He's surrounded by 8,500 of them.

He's thin, bespectacled and has a pleasantly wry twist to his smile; laughs easily and speaks meticulously, and is certainly not as foggy upstairs as librarians and the devoted bookish ones are sometimes believed to be.

Interviewed among his books, 5 1/2 tons of them, he lit a cigarette.

"Any scruples about smoking amongst an inflammable investment such as this?"

"Not the slightest. Smoking and books are invariably associated."

He came to Victoria from Toronto and opened the bookshop last April because "this is the best place to live and work."

With the RCAF at Patricia Bay three years during the war, the Englishman was sold on the area. He returned yearly for holidays.

Not only does Mr. Smith read books about books, he writes them, and is an authority on library planning and administration. He is also editorial consultant and writer on Canadian themes for several top-notch reference works.

Experience on Canadian books and writers has included three years as lecturer on Canadian books and the people who penned them at University of Toronto.

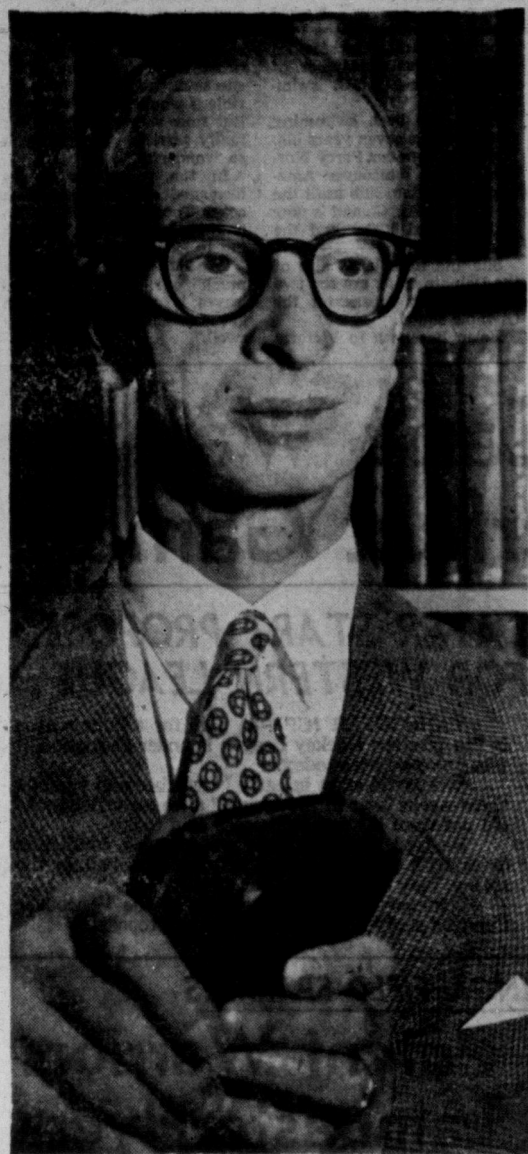

MUCH READ HERE

Here are some of his thoughts:

Victoria is a good reading city. Mothers here take a great deal of concern in keeping standards of their children's reading at a sensible level.

United States universities are developing collections of "Canadiana," in which he specializes. Victoria residents evidence a high interest in "Edwardian" writing, which has more or less sunk into oblivion elsewhere in Canada. The Kipling Society here exemplifies this trend.

There is a demand here for the minor classics, overlooked elsewhere.

R. D. HILTON SMITH

... caresses 440-year-old book lovingly.

There is a steady increase of biographies of Canadians and this is the "most marked feature" of current Canadian writing.

Regardless of what the radio program says, people aren't funny. In 1955 for the Leacock Medal for Humor there were only three submissions (Eric Nicol of Vancouver won it for his "Shall We Join the Ladies?").

Television is absorbing the audience which in the past read "pretty poor material" to pass the time.

TV "STIMULATING"

But television is also stimulating thinkers with the better programs to read more.

So the situation balances. Any form of control of who shall read what books, is bad, as it clouds the intellectual climate. With children, it's the responsibility of the parents what they shall or shall not read.

While not the ideal, the working norm for a thoughtful society is 1 1/2 books per head in libraries.

The community likely to do

One of the most colorful figures in the world of golf was Walter Hagen. Now, with the aid of Margaret Beaton Hagen, he has written his amazing life story. Because of world-wide popularity and the fact that he played in the city, the Times takes pleasure in presenting the Hagen biography.

THE HAGEN STORY

First Yank to Win British Open

CHAPTER 10

When I crossed the Atlantic for the British Open in 1922 I honestly believed my year for winning that prized cup had finally arrived.

The British Open was played on the Royal St. George's Links at Sandwich, where six years later the Prince of Wales presented the cup to me after my third win.

But I was concerned in 1922 with making up for the results of my two previous attempts — the first ending in ignominious defeat, and the second, a better but unsatisfactory showing when I finished sixth.

The evening before the Championship a dozen or so of us were engaged in a putting competition on the carpet of the hotel lounge at Ramsgate until well after two in the morning.

Someone reminded me of the time and of the fact that most of my opponents had been in bed for hours.

"Maybe they're in bed," I retorted, "but they are not sleeping."

For no one knew better than I the value of relaxation.

And relaxation meant keeping one's mind off the Championship until it came time to drive off the first tee.

The man I feared most among the leaders was Jock Hutchinson who had won the year before. As the last round began Jim Barnes and I were even on the 228 mark and Jock was leading us by two strokes.

George Duncan was down the list with 232. I had half a dozen runners on the course to bring me news of Jock's progress. I learned he had blown up at two holes so my final round of 72, giving me a 300 total, appeared to be safe since Barnes had finished with 301 and Jock Hutchinson had come in with a 302.

WRITERS CONCEDED

George Duncan was still out. The sports writers jumped the gun and sent in their stories on "How Hagen Won" his first British Open.

In fact, some of the evening editions were right then selling on the links!

And then it happened! About half an hour before Duncan finished runners were shouting that he was burning up the course in a frantic effort to tie or beat me.

He had gone out in 34, a seemingly impossible score, considering the strong wind which was whipping in from the sea. If he came back in 34, he would tie me. I joined the huge gallery watching Duncan's dramatic effort.

His drive was straight down the eighteenth fairway. He played his second shot wide to the green and to the left, leaving himself an up-left, if the shot didn't come off, it would cost me no more than a 5 anyway. This was a very delicate shot and I concentrated on hitting the ball cleanly to the left side.

I manipulated the shot perfectly and my ball stopped within a foot of the hole. My putt was an easy tap for my 4. I had played a shot very seldom executed for there aren't too many opportunities for trying it on the British seaside links.

After that I could do no wrong, so I finished my last three holes confidently with 3-4-4 to give me the winning 300.

I called a few of my pals in New York to set up a celebration at the Biltmore Hotel for the night of my arrival back in the United States.

GREAT WELCOME

SHE'LL RETIRE A CHAMPION

Olympic Games Helen's Swan-Song

By BILL RAYNER

Helen Stewart, the pert, fresh-as-a-dew little mermaid from Vancouver, holder of the unofficial 100-yard world freestyle record of 57.6 seconds, is off on her last major competitive jaunt.

Here to train for two weeks at Crystal Garden pool with seven of the 10-member Canadian Olympic swimming team, Helen plans to "retire" after the 1956 Olympic Games in Melbourne, Australia.

Sitting demurely in the lobby of the Empress Hotel, where the team is staying, Helen told the Times Tuesday that after the Olympics she will devote herself to swimming for relaxation and to college. She plans to take a physical education course at University of British Columbia.

"I love swimming," she said, "but the strain of the competitive end of it is becoming too much. You train and train and work so hard, and then so many things can still go wrong in a race and you lose, anyway."

"I graduated from Lord Byng High School this spring and I haven't done anything since then but swim and swim to make the Olympic team. It becomes an awful chore after a while. But it's still nice when you win."

Just 18, Helen has had her share of big moments. Her world record was set Saturday at Vancouver's Crystal Pool during the B.C. High School Invitational Championships, slicing half a second off the mark held by Judy Alderson of Chicago.

Last year she won a gold medal for Canada at the Pan-American games in Mexico City, and was a member of Canada's 1954 B.E.G. swimming team.

Helen has been swimming since she was seven years old. She trained under Percy Norman of the Vancouver Amateur Swimming Club until the close of the B.E.G., and is now with Howard Kirby and the Dolphin Club.

She and Bill Slater, also of the Dolphin Club, are the two Vancouver members on the Olympic squad.

Helen has been to Victoria several times before to appear in intercity meets and never did care much for the city, but is changing her mind now that she is stuck here for an enforced stay.

"I used to walk by the Empress Hotel from the boat," she said, "and think how terrible it would be to live there. But now we're here and it's really terrific. Everybody is so wonderful."

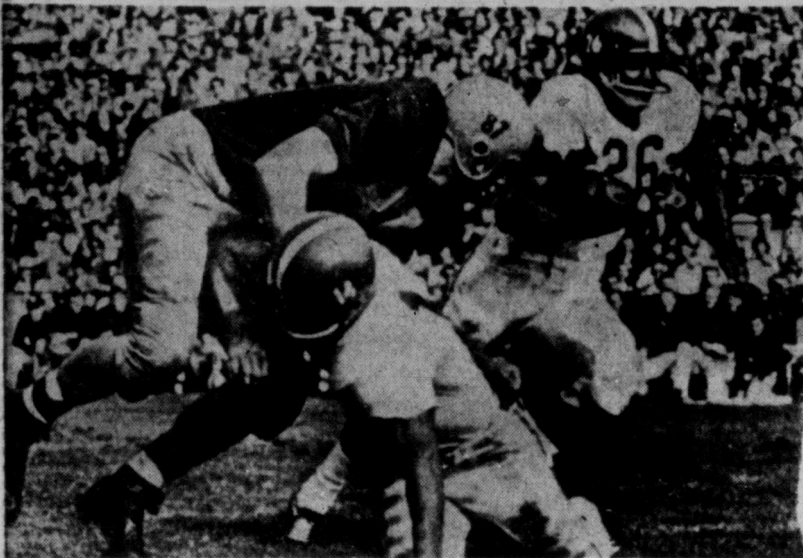

In the vernacular of the teen-aged set, Olympic team coach Tommy Walker of Toronto is also "terrific," according to Helen.

"He lets us train in pretty much our own way, and leaves it up to ourselves to get in shape. He's really swell."

Although she was "surprised" at her time, Helen's biggest thrill, of course, was her record swim Saturday. But now she is chockful of excitement about the trip down under, where she will compete in the 100-metre freestyle and as a member of the 400-metre freestyle relay team.

How will the Canadian squad do down there? Helen shyly wouldn't say, except that she and her fellow swimmers would be trying their very hardest to do Canada proud.

And with Helen trying her best, an Olympic medal could very well be her farewell to competitive swimming.

IT'S ALL IN THE BLOCKING

Dodger Hero Podres Faces Operation

BROOKLYN (AP)—Johnny Podres, the skinny Yankee killer, revealed today that he faces a spinal operation—but that he's going to pitch as long as possible before going under the knife.

The 24-year-old Brooklyn Dodger left-hander, who beat New York Yankees twice in the 1955 World Series, was discharged from the U.S. Navy less than a week ago.

"I'll go as far as I can before I get the operation," said Podres.

"I certainly don't want it now."

"Maybe I can go a year and maybe I can go five before it becomes a necessity. The doctors can't make a better estimate."

Podres suffers from spondylitis, a disintegration of the small bones which link the spinal column with the body. He's had the ailment almost all his life.

AFTER 20 LONG YEARS

Riders Favored To Defeat Jinx

WINNIPEG (CP)—The 1956 edition of Winnipeg Blue Bombers—spotted with many newcomers—may not know it, but it's 20 years since Saskatchewan Roughriders won a playoff series from Winnipeg.

Despite this record, the Riders probably will go into the Western Interprovincial Football Union two-game, total-point semifinal against Bombers at about 6-5 favorites. The first game gets under way Saturday at Regina's Taylor Field, with the win/loss at the Winnipeg Stadium Monday.

It was in November, 1936, that Riders last turned the tables on a Winnipeg team in the playoffs—either semifinal or final. That year, Winnipeg went into the final with a two-point pull in view of the two-point advantage in the league standings. Winnipeg won the opener 7-4 but dropped the second contest 20-5 and the round 24-14. Riders, however, failed to make the trip to the Grey Cup due to a dispute over imports.

IN CUP FINAL IN 1951

Riders went to the Grey Cup in 1951, but by defeating Edmonton Eskimos, who had downed Bombers in the semifinal.

The last three years have been rough ones for the Regina team. They lost all three semifinal series to Winnipeg. In 1953 Lorne Boom Boom Benson roared for a then-league-record six touchdowns in the first game and Riders never fully recovered, losing 60-23 on points. In 1954, the clubs tied the first occupy it as tenants at least until the end of the 1959 national league season.

Colin Can't Wait For 'Perfect Game'

Vancouver 3, Victoria 2

Coach Colin Kilburn of the Victoria Cougars is wistfully awaiting the day when his charges stop making mistakes. Costly mistakes, anyway.

Two bad ones Tuesday night transformed a well-fought game by the Cougars into another loss by the smallest allowable margin, and a 3-2 win for Vancouver Canucks in Vancouver.

As hopeful as a coach can be whose team has lost four games out of the past five by one goal, Kilburn reported today that the team was steaming as well as ever but committed two defensive lapses that Vancouver converted into two goals.

FIRST ERROR

With the score tied at 1-1, in the second period, Cougars' Nelson Bullock and Bruce Carmichael collided while chasing Canucks' Jackie McLeod. McLeod went in alone to take a rebound off goalie Marcel Pelletier to score.

Then, after the Cats had tied it up in the third, bad clearing gave Motto McLean a chance for a shot at Pelletier and he made it good for the winner.

Ralph Keller opened the scoring for Vancouver in the first period with Victoria short-handed. Bruce Carmichael tied it up in the second off Cougars' celebrated power play with the man advantage and George Ranieri tipped in a long shot by Bill Dobbins for their second counter.

Kilburn's reshuffled lineup looked good enough despite the loss to earn a repeat performance Friday night when the Cougars host the New Westminster Royals at Memorial Arena.

The Wayne Brown-Doug Anderson-Doug Macauley line turned in a creditable performance, just missing several good scoring chances, while Kilburn picked up an assist on Ranieri's goal while centering Ranieri and Carmichael.

BRUERS COLLIDE
Dobbins and Vancouver defenceman Jim Bedard lived things up for the 3,000 fans in the third period with a brief but heated fist fight that earned them five-minute penalties.

For the forthcoming weekend action with the Royals, which will see the Cougars in New Westminster Saturday, Kilburn is making no lineup changes and is pointing for a double victory.

"We'll make the breaks go our way this weekend," he said, "and we'll be right up there again by Monday."

The loss Tuesday dropped the Cougars into last place, one point behind the Canucks and five behind New Westminster.

Swim Mark Eclipsed
MELBOURNE (AP)—Murray Rose, 18-year-old vegetarian, Tuesday night clipped 6.4 seconds off the world 1,500-metre freestyle swimming record and thereby won a round in his battle of swim times with American George Breen.

Rose's time, set in the third and final night of the Australian Olympic trials in the new Olympic pool, was 17:59.5. It was Breen's 18:05.9 record he broke.

LATER START PROPOSED FOR WESTERN LEAGUE

VANCOUVER (CP)—A plan for a later season in the Western Hockey League is under discussion, it was reported here today.

"We could start in early November and wind up three weeks later in the spring," a league official who did not want his name disclosed said today.

He said the later start would avoid conflicting dates with football in the fall and baseball in the spring. Play opened this year Oct. 8.

Manager-coach Art Chapman of the Vancouver Canucks said "I'm interested in the proposal."

INGARFIELD SPARKLES

Potent Warriors Lambaste Flyers

EDMONTON (CP)—Winnipeg Warriors exploded for three third-period goals on sharp shooting by Earl Ingardfield, Hugh Barlow and Pat Hannigan Tuesday night to whip Edmonton Flyers 5-1 and move into third place in the prairie division of the Western Hockey League.

Ingardfield and Barlow each got two goals and Hannigan the other for Warriors who took a 1-0 lead in the first period and were ahead 2-1 after the second. Bill McCreaty scored the only Edmonton goal to prevent goalie Ed Johnston from getting his second shutout of the young season.

The victory, before a crowd of 3,062, sent Warriors into third place, a point ahead of Calgary Stampede who were idle Tuesday night. Flyers remained in second place, two points behind Brandon Regals whom they meet at Brandon Wednesday night.

Ingardfield's brilliant play highlighted the contest, marked by eight penalties in the ragged first period and smooth passing by Warriors through the rest of the game.

A pass from defenceman Noel Price sent Ingardfield away for his first goal in the opening period, the former Lethbridge junior scoring on a blistering 30-foot shot from the side that caught the top of the open corner.

Early in the second, Hannigan passed to Barlow on a rushing play from centre and with two Edmonton defenders taken out of the play from blue line bouncing, Barlow had a clear shot from 20 feet out. He picked the top right hand corner over Dennis Riggins's shoulder.

WHAT'S THE SCORE?

BY Denny Boyd

For the first time in history, Canada will not be sending a group of unprepared strangers to the Olympic Games as our representative swimming team.

Instead, when the torch is lit in Melbourne, Australia, later this month, our swimming team will consist of a group of swimmers who have worked with each other, who have helped each other and who will be guided by a coach who knows the talents and personal idiosyncracies of each of his competitors.

If that sounds just as it should be, don't be fooled. And if gathering the Canadian swim team together for three weeks of intensive preparation sounds obvious, remember, it was never thus.

We, in Canada, are a queer breed. We do little to support our Olympic and British Empire Games teams and we do virtually nothing to make their tasks easier.

When they come home, we screech like angered magpies and bleat the patented questions about, "Why doesn't Canada do better in the Olympics?"

But this year's swimming team is getting a break that no predecessor ever had.

It's a simple thing, but the fact that coach Tommy Walker is being given the opportunity of three weeks training with his team is a precedent without compare.

"This training session in Victoria is a unique thing," said Walker Monday in Archie McKinnon's picture and trophy-cluttered cubicle in the YMCA.

Training Starts in the Home
"It's a marvelous break for us and our team manager, Dr. Paul Hauch, deserves all the credit. The set-up here, with the Syrtist Garden pool and the Y gym, is perfect for our needs and these three weeks could make all the difference in the results we hope to achieve."

Walker pointed out that a coach, to properly handle his team, must learn to know his swimmers, their strengths, weaknesses and personality factors.

"We are a free country; we don't regiment our athletes and train them by blind obedience."

"In certain European countries, a swim team would be recruited and the swimmers would lead an almost military life, told how to train, when to train. Results would be expected with no explanations given."

"But here in Canada, our training starts in the home and then through the individual coaches."

"We treat our swimmers as individuals, not as statistics. We don't develop our athletes by teaching them blind obedience because that system bypasses loyalty and individual desire."

While he does not own a skull doctor's shingle, Tommy left the impression that his duties are 50 per cent physical development and 50 per cent mental development.

"When swimmers are training hard, they must feel that a large part of what they are doing is their own idea. This is vital to maintain the proper spirit and devotion. Some swimmers will thrive on orders but many more will want to analyze the situation and receive satisfactory answers. No two swimmers are alike and it is my job to understand them all and to recognize their individual problems."

Beth's Moans Music to Tommy
"For instance, when Beth Whittall won two events in the Pan-American games within 15 minutes of each other, I knew, before she swam that she was in superb condition."

"Before the first race, I had her standing behind a partition in the rain and I knew the nervous strain she was under."

"Beth moaned like a seasick person and said, 'Tommy, I'm sick. I feel terrible.'"

"Hearing her say that was music to my ears because, knowing Beth, I knew that this depressed, sick feeling was the sign that she was at her best."

"It's these little things that a coach has to know to really get the best from a team."

And so it is that, while flags and bunting are being raised far away in Australia, Canada's swimming team is being groomed, physically and mentally, in Victoria.

And if the hard and imaginative work of Tommy Walker, psychiatrist-without-portfolio, pays off, we in Victoria can allow ourselves a little vest-puffing.

MEDICAL SUPPLIES FLOWN

Canadian Aid Hungary-Bound

By BILL BOSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer
GANDER, Nfld. (CP)—An RCAF North Star took off from Gander International airport early today with five tons of medical supplies for revolt-torn Hungary.

North Star 17321 made a two-hour refuelling stop here. Its destination was Vienna by way of the Azores.

The $40,000 cargo it carried was collected earlier this week within less than 48 hours from commercial and government depots in Toronto, Montreal and Ottawa and sped from Toronto Tuesday afternoon for Hungary where thousands wounded in uprisings need medical aid desperately.

Every crate and package bears a large Red Cross label and the words "Gift of the Canadian Red Cross."

Other markings show that the 40,000 penicillin vials, 500,000 sulfonamide tablets and thousands upon thousands of shell dressings were gathered from Red Cross depots, civil defence stocks and commercial firms.

RUSH ORDER
Red Cross officials said after Prime Minister St. Laurent Sunday authorized use of the North Star, drug manufacturers started round-the-clock operations to meet the Tuesday afternoon deadline.

The North Star touched down at Gander six hours after Hungarian nationalists, waving flags, had given it a touching send-off at Malton.

Authority has been sought through international and Hungarian Red Cross societies to allow the plane to fly right into Budapest, but no answer has yet been received.

Meanwhile Hungarian associations throughout Canada were debating whether to concentrate upon humanitarian relief for their kinsmen or to send military assistance as well. Deciding to pitch in with the Red Cross they organized the Canadian Hungarian Relief Fund in Toronto.

Contributions towards further shipments will be sought from the Canadian public.

Seattle Fire Damage Extensive

SEATTLE (AP)—A stubborn, wind-whipped blaze roared through a four-story commercial building near Seattle's waterfront Tuesday night, raging out of control three hours and doing extensive damage, before it was brought under control.

No one was injured fighting the blaze. Fire Chief William Fitzgerald said damage would amount to many thousands of dollars. Fourteen engine companies, five ladder companies and three fire marshals were called to the scene.

The blaze was confined to the Oceanic Building.

2nd Warning Given Russ To Clear Budapest of Tanks

BUDAPEST (AP)—Aircraft of the Hungarian Air Force today scattered leaflets on Budapest threatening again to bomb Russian tanks if they do not quit the city.

It was the air force's second threat to attack the Soviet forces who tried in vain to quell the uprising against Russian control of Hungary.

An ultimatum from the Hungarian air command Tuesday night demanded that the Russians evacuate the revolution-torn capital today, but the early morning deadline passed without action.

The Red troops abandoned their positions on Budapest's Danube River bridges, but a Hungarian Army officer said Soviet tank units still were stationed near the Parliament building, seat of Premier Imre Nagy's government.

CARDINAL LIBERATED

The swirling events brought the liberation of Cardinal Mindszenty by revolutionary troops. The prelate, who had been in jail at Felsopeceny, returned to the capital today and received a tumultuous welcome after he was spotted being driven through the streets. Crowds poured out to hail the church leader, especially in Buda.

Budapest's predominantly Roman Catholic section.

Armed rebels still prowled the revolt-torn capital seeking to wipe out the last remnants of the hated Hungarian security police (the AVH).

The Freedom National Council, whose headquarters have been established at Győr, said it was ready to enter negotiations with the government. The rebel broadcast said a number of Hungarian Army units have pledged loyalty to the council.

Hungary's old traditional political parties began to pick up the threads of their existence after years of Communist-ordered oblivion. Bela Kovacs, former first secretary of the Smallholders' party, was reported to have arrived in Budapest.

Nationalists Tuesday broke into headquarters of the Communist party, dragged out party functionaries and secret police officers and hanged them on trees in the square.

Telephone and telegraph communications between Budapest and Vienna were restored today.

2,500 SOVIETS KILLED IN BUDAPEST FIGHTING

BUDAPEST (Reuters)—About 2,500 Russians were killed and 5,000 wounded in the fighting in Budapest, Hungarian sources estimated Tuesday night.

Hungarian casualties—dead and wounded totalled 13,000, the sources said. Of these, 3,000 were armed nationalists.

Polio Vaccine Sale Attracts Few Buyers

Little interest has been shown by Victoria's adult population in the fact commercial Salk vaccine is now available in city drug stores.

A check with some of the city's leading pharmacies reveals some stores haven't yet found a customer for the anti-polio vaccine.

One dealer reported children's doctors have either purchased direct or authorized prescription sales for inoculation of pre-school infants.

But "adults haven't shown much interest."

"The demand is not as big as was anticipated. There is certainly no shortage," said another dealer.

The commercial vaccine arrived here Oct. 12 from a United States supply house. It sells in $12 vials which contain enough vaccine for inoculation of three persons. Second and third doses would require new prescriptions and purchase of other vials, a druggist explained.

Some druggists have waiting lists for the vaccine started almost two years ago. Even the people on the lists appear disinterested now the drug is available.

One Oak Bay drug store reports good volume of sales direct to doctors.

All school children and children in the immediate pre-school age receive vaccine as it becomes available through provincial and municipal health sources.

All-Out Drive For Winter's Tourists On

An all out campaign will be launched by the Victoria and Vancouver Island Publicity Bureau to capture a share of the lucrative Prairie winter tourist trade.

The campaign will start on Dec. 1 and will last until Jan. 19.

George Warren, city publicity commissioner, said today the campaign is an answer to strong competition from U.S. tourist agencies to draw Prairie visitors to California, Florida and Honolulu during the winter months.

"The winter tourist trade is important to Victoria," he said. "In the past we have attracted hundreds of Prairie people to Vancouver Island."

Victoria and Vancouver Island will be publicized in all major newspapers of the three Prairie provinces, as well as in farm magazines, Mr. Warren said.

In addition, he said, the bureau will send publicist Dave Nairne to the three provinces to assist in promoting the winter tourist trade.

He said advertisements will read: "Now relax on the shores of the Pacific. It's different. Follow the birds to Victoria."

Mr. Warren said the winter tourist trade was a new field and "an important one at that."

"In the past Prairie farmers were usually the people who came to the coast in winter," he explained. "Today hundreds of people connected with the oil industry also travel during the cold season."

BIG TRADE
West Germany exported 2,140,000 cameras valued at $40,000,000 in 1955.

Kyuquot Mail Lost As Boat Hits Rock

KYUQUOT—Three sacks of mail are missing and presumed lost today following an accident in which mail got a salt-water bath.

Postmaster Donald Grant was returning after picking up weekly shipments of freight and second class mail from the Princess of Alberni, when his boat grounded.

He was stranded four hours. When pulled off by the fish-packer Alema a deckload of mail sacks and freight fell into the water.

Missing along with the three mail sacks are a quarter of beef and a mattress.

The weekly movie was cancelled when the film was soaked.

AROUND AND ABOUT

With Jo Healy

Shades of Halloweens as we knew them back in the twenties—with apologies to poetry lovers everywhere: The ghosties, the goblins, the long-legged beasties, The witches a-ridin' their steeds of straw, And the gold jack-o'-lanterns a-glowin' and grinnin' As if to deride the anxious-faced wimmin, Afraid that their kids run a-foul of the law. The law and the order on this night of mystery Might even go down on the pages of history; Might and it mightn't— Depends who's more frightened, The ghost's, of the cop, or the cop is of he.

We'll push down a back'se and start a good fracas, For fences and gates we'll have no respect. And then if we're hunted, caught and confronted With all of the evidence they can detect, We'll peek through our masks, if anyone asks, And claim we're GOOD witches just out to collect Apples 'n' peanuts 'n' candy 'n' stuff. WE wouldn't do anything really rough; None of us, really, are tough enough To push down a privy and stand the guff. No, we're DEAR little beasties, innocent witches, We keep all the folks in the merriest stitches Of laughter; right after we end our performances— Songies and poems in rhythm, or dances— They offer us treats for our cute little trickses. So prop up the back'se, put up the fence. Everyone knows, with a smidgin of sense, That if anyone knows, nobody tells. And none of us occupy prison cells, And nobody knows where we have been With the ghosts and the goblins this Halloween.

ISLAND DIGEST

Alberni-Cumberland Road Being Surveyed

ALBERNI—Hopes for an alternate link with the east coast of Vancouver Island were strengthened this week when Ald. James Trebett told city council B.C. government surveyors are working on a road route between here and Cumberland.

This project, a long-time objective of Alberni Board of Trade, and subject of countless representations to Victoria, would join the rich Alberni and Comox valleys with about 40 miles of road.

It would bring Courtenay within 46 miles of Alberni. The present route through Qualicum Beach is close to 60 miles.

"Completion of this road, in conjunction with the west coast road to Tofino and Ucluelet, could make Alberni the Nanaimo of the west coast," council members said.

The proposed road to Cumberland would follow the Beaver Creek Road, and the west coast route follows River Road. These two join north and west of the town, therefore all Ucluelet and Courtenay-Cumberland traffic would be funnelled through Alberni.

Years ago there was a connection between the two communities that has since lapsed. Purely by accident, the Alberni Pacific Lumber Company of Port Alberni, and Comox Logging and Railway Co. Ltd. of Courtenay, logged settings at the outermost limits of their territory in that area at the same time.

For quite a few weeks loggers from Alberni and Comox worked almost side by side and had lunch together, then at night went to their homes 60 miles apart.

However, it has only been in the past few years that extension of truck logging has opened roads along the rugged shores of Comox Lake, west of Cumberland, and two years ago a party from Alberni made the trip, using a combination of logging and public roads.

'Lovers' Lane' Cemetery To Be Locked

ALBERNI—Greenwood Cemetery here, scene of a desecration a few weeks ago when a corpse was unearthed and headstones strewn around, will have its gates locked against vehicular traffic except when a burial is under way.

The cemetery has been known locally as "Lovers' Lane."

Towboatman Drowns, Heroic Rescue Effort

Grim Sea Tragedy Near Ogden Point

Two towboatmen faced death in storm-tossed waters off Ogden Point breakwater early today in an heroic but vain effort to rescue a shipmate who fell overboard.

Drowned was Raymond Newton, about 30, of Vancouver.

His valiant mates are Rudy Vollner and Alex "Sandy" Warnock, also of Vancouver.

The grim tragedy of icy water and seven-foot waves started in pitch darkness and driving rain at 6 a.m.

Aboard the tug Grant Lindsay, of Vancouver Barge Transport, change of watch was taking place.

The tug was inbound from Vancouver, with a covered barge in tow, a heavy weather crossing of the Gulf of Georgia safely behind her.

Suddenly a cry for help sounded off the stern of the tug. None of the crew saw him go, but Newton had fallen overboard.

Said Sandy Warnock, "Tossing around like that, it's not hard to slip."

The tug's master, Capt. Robert Oliver, ordered engines stopped, and Warnock and Vollner dived off the tug's counter into the inky, biting-cold water.

They swam in circles, looking for their shipmate.

"We couldn't see a thing. It was so dark. And the waves were so high, it was impossible to find him," said Warnock.

The tug's skipper backed slowly toward the swimming men. Warnock grasped a bulwark and pulled himself inboard. Then he and the captain hauled Vollner over the side.

Warnock went below to strip off his wet clothing. The captain kept the tug backing toward the area where Newton had gone overboard.

Suddenly, Vollner shouted "There he is!" and again leapt overboard.

"I couldn't stop him," said Capt. Oliver. "He shouldn't have gone in again. He was already exhausted and nearly freezing."

But Vollner had spotted Newton, and swam to his side.

Months. "But he'd worked the waterfront for years," he said. "He was a good seaman, and a good shipmate."

The accident occurred between the tip of the breakwater and the Brothie Ledge light, close inshore. At one stage, while the tug was manoeuvring to search for Newton, her barge nearly fouled the breakwater.

Tom Taylor, launchman for B.C. Pilotage Authority, spotted the accident on the water and immediately went out to assist in B.C. Pilot No. 1.

He circled and criss-crossed the area for an hour before giving up the search.

RCMP requested divers from HMCS Naden diving unit to search for the body.

The Grant Lindsay operates a regular run from Vancouver to Victoria and return, alternating with her sister tug, the Joan Lindsay.

DEPUTY FISHERIES MINISTER LEAVES POST AFTER 22 YEARS

George J. Alexander, for 22 years deputy minister of B.C.'s fisheries department, retired from service today.

He was one of the few men possessing a complete and detailed picture of the province's multi-million dollar commercial fishing industry, gained through a full range of posts with coast fishing firms before succeeding J. P. Babcock as deputy minister.

In recognition of his service in the department, fisheries and agriculture minister Ralph Chetwynd was to present Mr. Alexander with a memento on behalf of his staff and colleagues this afternoon.

BETWEEN TIMES By MONTE ROBERTS

I have been asked to tell all I know about Halloween. Fortunately, I do not know much about Halloween.

Halloween is similar to New Year's Eve inasmuch both occasions provide an excuse for stupid people to do stupid things.

However, the day after Halloween is different from New Year's Day. The day after Halloween is chiefly distinguished by soap on windows, and New Year's Day by ice bags on heads.

(How New Year's Day got in here so prominently, I do not know.)

Halloween is really All Hallows Eve, so-called because All Hallows is apt to break loose.

Halloween has not been nearly so much fun since the invention of indoor plumbing.

In ancient times, the two chief characteristics of Halloween were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that this is the one night in the year during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad.

In modern times, the two chief characteristics of Halloween are children with burnt fingers and fathers saying "now, when I was a boy..."

Halloween is also the day before the day on which the city fathers say the ban against fireworks MUST be enforced—next year.

Halloween is when small-sized children have a big time, and 20-year-old children with small minds cause the cops no end of grief.

Setting off firecrackers on Halloween is an old Chinese custom, and has nothing to do with Halloween. Firecrackers are supposed to frighten away evil spirits, but all they do is give doggies with sensitive ears convulsion fits.

Halloween is held every year on Oct. 31 because November will have no part of it.

Like Christmas, it comes but once a year. But unlike Christmas, this is once too often.

Fortunately, I do not know very much about Halloween, except I am very well equipped for same, having my own built-in funny face.

Assistant Priest For Cathedral Here From U.K.

New junior assistant priest to Christ Church Cathedral, Rev. Christopher Hubbard, arrived from England Tuesday with Mrs. Hubbard, and their 18-month-old daughter, Helen.

They were greeted at the dock by Dean Brian Whitlow, Mrs. Whitlow, Rev. George Lang, senior assistant priest, and wardens of the cathedral.

Ordained in 1953, Mr. Hubbard, 31, has been rector of the Ringwood Parish in Winchester, England, for the past three years.

The Hubbards will stay at the Angela Hotel here until they find a home.

SHADES OF THINGS TO COME?

City police were given a Halloween "preview" Tuesday night by youths creating a disturbance with firecrackers.

Mrs. F. Lesley, 806 Linden, reported a large firecracker was thrown through a doorway of her home and burned varnish on the door.

A woman and her daughter complained to police that a gang of youths using obscene language threw firecrackers at them while they walked on the street.

Police answered another call to the Strathcona Bowling Alley, 712 Courtney, when the manager reported youths were throwing firecrackers down the stairway.

Another tip-off of things to come was reported by a citizen who told police he overheard a gang of youths in a city restaurant say they were going to shoot out all street lights on Yates Street tonight with a shotgun.

About 20 minutes had elapsed since the cry for help.

"Newton was a good swimmer, but he didn't have a chance," said Warnock. "He was wearing heavy underwear, trousers, a lined jacket, and over that, a waterproof parka and trousers. He had on ice boots. He had a light fixed to his forehead, and the batteries in his pocket."

The weight just dragged him down, I guess."

Capt. Oliver said Newton had been on the tug for about two

"Any place you know where we can get some?"

It marked the fourth time the council has conducted similar ceremonies—in effect a briefing on Canadianism—for the new citizens.

Participating were Mrs. H. L. Smith, past president of the council; Mrs. Peter Marr and Miss Ellen Hart of the University Women's Club; Rev. C. B. Smith, Victoria Ministerial Association; Mrs. H. J. Tullis, Provincial archivist, Willard Ireland, spoke briefly on the duties of citizenship.

New Canadians are: Chin Shook Poy, Kum Young Chow, Lee Ying Kee, Lui Yan Woo, Lee Wah Yin, Ma Chun Yuen, Shung Lun Bew, Wong Wai, Ellen Futterer, Egildus Futterer, Sven Georg Granvall, William Darius Kinnsey, Maria Lella Marcolin, Gerhard Karl Heinrich Reiss, Alvine Sidorov and Fernand Vocat.

Each received a Bible with his name inscribed from the British and Foreign Bible Society. Presentations were made by Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh and H. L. Hopkins.

New Game Warden Appointment Plan Biologist's Aim

A prominent U.S. biologist visiting here today advocated a change in the system of appointing game wardens in the interest of preserving game and conservation in Canada and the United States.

Ernest P. Edwards, who showed his wildlife Mexican movie, "The Land of the Scarlet Macaw," at the Oak Bay High School Tuesday, said wardens should be selected on the basis of their interest in wildlife and conservation.

The six-foot tall biologist from Amherst, Virginia, said wardens are now appointed as law enforcement officers, not responsible for the welfare of animals.

"In my opinion they should be trained not only to enforce the game laws but also to care for animals and birds in game areas," he said. "There's more to conservation than simply catching a person who breaks the law."

A record crowd turned out to see Mr. Edwards' movie at the school auditorium. The movie lecture was sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society and the Audubon Society of Canada.

Q. What is the population of Egypt? And when did the country first appear in history? Mrs. J. M. D.

A. A United Nations estimate in 1954 set it at 22,469,000. Archaeological records of ancient empires in Egypt go back to 4000 B.C. A high caste of rulers and priests dominated the lowly serfs, Assyrians, Persians, Greeks (Alexander of Macedonia), Romans, Sarcens, Turks, French (Napoleon) and British invaded Egypt. Under Turkish sultans the khedive as hereditary viceroy had wide authority, but repeated insolvency led to regulation by European powers. Britain, which supervised the administration after 1882, made Egypt a protectorate in 1914 to defend it when Turkey joined Germany in the First Great War, but ended it Feb. 28, 1922. Britain then recognized Egypt as a sovereign state, but reserved defence, security of British communications and nationals and the Sudan. At this end of the country's long history readers will form their own conclusions as to how far the descendants of the swarming fellahen have been from the august position of a first-class nation.

Shy East Indian Girl is Bride In Traditional Sikh Ceremony

By KITTY DIXON

I went to a Sikh wedding... and it was like being transported to India with only one step into the Sikh Temple.

I properly left my shoes outside, according to Sikh custom, and wondered, as I did it, why there weren't more women's shoes among the rows on the Temple verandah. Only one pair of black suede pumps kept mine company.

Inside, I quickly spotted the familiar face of photographer, Irving Strickland, so went over and sat on the carpeted floor beside him. The wedding guests grinned and made excited signs with their hands.

Irving cleared his throat, "Ah... I think the women sit on the other side," came his whisper.

He was right. I was surrounded by men. Hurriedly I moved to the other side of the room, and sat beside a woman who, it happened, was just as bemused as I.

When I remarked that it seemed only men were entering through the front door, she nodded. "Yes, I'm afraid I made the same mistake. Women come in the back way."

That explained the one pair of women's suede shoes on the verandah. She was the owner. In the temple the women sat with blankets over their knees... to keep warm, I imagine.

BEARDED PRIEST

At the far end of the Temple was a man with a white turban and snowy white beard, Musha Singh Dukhi, the priest. He sat beneath a green canopy brocaded in gold and decorated with bright flowers and glittering ornaments like Christmas tree bangles. Before him was a satin-covered alter-like arrangement, holding the Sikh Bible which is held in highest respect by worshippers.

Every Sikh entering the Temple bowed low before the Bible and Priest... so low, in fact, that he or she would crouch on the knees, touching the head to the floor. Some tossed coin of ferings.

Silver and Gold on Velvet Feature of Purses, Belts

By PENNY SAVER

Glamour at low cost seems to be the selling point of the ornate evening purses and matching belts that have an exotic Oriental aura about them. On black velvet are embroidered gold and silver flowers that glitter in evening lights. When these first appeared several years ago, they were much more expensive. The belts hook at the back, giving the front a smooth, attractive line. The purses come in five styles and patterns and are priced at $4.95, $5.95 and $7.50. The belts are $2.95, and matching glass cases are $1.95. They're hand-made and would make lovely gifts for the clothes-conscious woman.

Large, blooming begonias in red or blue are backed with shaded green leaves, forming an attractive wall plaque. Begonias are a favorite flower with Victoria gardeners, and I'm sure these gay pottery pieces will be admired by all who see them. They may be bought single at $1.50, or in a pair for $3.

A gift for the bride is this Swedish cheese board I found. It's hand painted with bright wee flowers, and at one edge of the round board is a little mouse, also of carved wood and painted with posies. These handy boards sell at $4.50 each.

Wedgwood copies, made in Canada, caught my eye in a little gift shop. These delicately tinted wall plaques feature the four seasons. The background is pink, with white raised figures. The set of four costs $5. With the familiar blue background with white figures is a pair of Wedgwood copies with the cherubs and figures with lute and lyre. The pair costs $3.

Wall brackets to hold precious china figurines come in all sizes and shapes. Carved of wood are the golden-colored ones that are supported by sprays of tinted dogwood. A single shelf is $9.50. A double shelf is $11.50. If you have one of the large mantle pictures of the dogwood, these brackets would be especially attractive in the room. Once you see them, I know you'll like them.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find any of the items mentioned here in the column today or during past weeks.

BPW Club Halloween Party

Program included sleight-of-hand tricks with silk handkerchiefs, rings and rope, by Owen Fowler; a mystery guest from Hawaii in the person of Mrs. Cora Danby, who danced a hula, and Mrs. Mary Webb and Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, as tuxedo-clad auctioneers, who conducted an amusing and profitable Dutch auction sale.

Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served by members of the bridge club, under convener'ship of Miss Nona Rich.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your body is constantly renewing itself. Your skin is sloughing off old dead cells and growing new ones. Your blood stream changes from time to time and the tissues of your body do not remain the same. This is most encouraging because it means that you can change your body for the better if you will give yourself reasonably good care and eat as you should.

Good nutrition becomes a fascinating subject when you realize that the meat you ate last week is now a part of your red blood corpuscles, and the milk and fruit juice you drank now are working for your well-being. Your body must have essential materials with which to work and good nutrition provides these.

If you would like to renew yourself, cut down on fats and starches, be certain that you get an adequate supply of proteins and increase your vitamin and mineral intake. Eat most of your fruits raw, leave off fat meat, cook your eggs without grease and forget pastries for a while, anyway. You will find yourself much more enthusiastic and energetic!

A few years ago there was quite a fad for drinking vegetable juices. Today many of the world's great, and those less well known, continue this as a daily habit. You can buy these or you can brew your own vegetable "pot liquor." If you wish to make your own use carrot and beet tops, carrots, celery, cabbage, watercress and greens. Add tomato and lemon juice. If you wish, you can add a dash of garlic or onion.

Before folks became informed about nutrition the most important element in food went down the drain. Vegetables were cooked in large amounts of water and for long periods. The water then was poured off the vegetables and down the drain. With it went a lot of good health.

While we cannot stop the clock of age and the aging process will continue no matter what we do, we can slow them down. If we have been neglecting ourselves, it is entirely possible to be in much better physical condition a few months from now than we are today.

There is a nice bonus, too. As you live and eat to improve your health you also are improving your appearance. The diet which is low in fat and carbohydrates and high in protein, minerals and vitamins is really a slimming diet.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 37 "Vitamin Defense," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Sooke Couple's 50th Wedding Day

A memorable day for five generations of the Reimnitz-Lavertu family, was that on which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lavertu celebrated their golden wedding.

On Oct. 17, 1906, Rev. Fr. Auclair united in marriage Pamela Reimnitz and Arthur Lavertu in St. Jean Chrysostome Church in the province of Quebec. In 1918, with five sons and two daughters, they moved from their store in Breakyville, Que., to a farm in Domremy, Sask., and 30 years later Mr. and Mrs. Lavertu came to Sooke to live with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lavertu, at Sooke Harbor House.

Recently, Mr. and Mrs. Lavertu returned to Domremy for the celebration, which began with High Mass sung by Rev. A. Houle in the parish church. Preceding the bride and groom, were Mrs. Lavertu's brothers, Louis and William Reimnitz, and a nephew, Firmin Reimnitz. Her mother, who is 87, was unable to be present.

At noon a banquet, attended by close friends and members of the family, was held in the village hall. The table featured a three-tier wedding cake topped by a large "50" in an ornamental gold setting.

CONGRATULATIONS

First to congratulate the happy couple was Rev. A. Houle, followed by Gus Baudais, reeve of the municipality. Jules Lavertu proposed the toast to his parents and read an address on behalf of the children. A bouquet of 50 fragrant golden-hued roses sent by the Lavertu family at Sooke was presented to Mrs. Lavertu by her daughter (Loretta). Mrs. Jos. Marsollier of Domremy. A purse of money from relatives, friends and immediate members of the family was presented by son Emelius of Domremy. Rev. Sr. Louise of the Sisters of Charity of St. Louis, Quebec, and Rev. Sr. St. Maurice, Ursuline Convent, Quebec, sisters of Mrs. Lavertu sent a spiritual bouquet, presented by granddaughter, Jeannine.

A Doucet, who was master of ceremonies for a short musical program of vocal and instrumental selections given by the various grandchildren, read telegrams from John Diefenbaker, M.P., and Mrs. Diefenbaker; Dr. and Mrs. Charles

ABOUT A "BAFFLING" ANNOUNCEMENT

The other day I received in the mail something that baffled me and would like your interpretation and advice. Without giving the real names it reads thus: "Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Mr. Charles Young, Nov. 18, 1956." That was all. There was no mention of a Louise Davis party or anything. But I hear by the grapevine that there will be a party that day. I used to know "Mary Brown" in grade school. Am I supposed to take her a gift?

Louise Davis Answers:

This is a new one on me and a strange way of announcing an engagement. If the Browns are giving a party, it's a strange "invitation." If I were you I would somehow verify that there is to be a party. You might as well go to the source by calling up Mary and tactfully ask her if the engagement announcement means that friends may be dropping in that day, and if so, what will be the hours. I see no reason for a gift unless you re-establish your friendship in the meantime. Even then you have no obligation.

Save Leaves and Grass To Nourish the Garden

Gardeners are just about ready to pack up their hoes and rakes and turn their green thumbs to growing things indoors. This means that the garden must be prepared for the long winter months.

Now is the time to gather up all the dead growth and put it to work for next year's flowers and vegetables. A compost pile made from this debris is a valuable source of the organic matter so necessary to a healthy soil.

To make a compost pile, simply arrange layer upon layer of weeds, lawn cuttings, dead plants, leaves and any other waste material from the garden. Between each layer sprinkle a little soil, along with a sprinkling of "Gardente" fertilizer to help feed the natural bacteria of the soil. The top of the pile should be kept concave to allow rain water to accumulate — water hastens the rotting process.

Any free corner of the garden — preferably hidden by trees or bushes — is an ideal place to start a compost pile. If it is not built too high, it can occasionally be turned over with a fork to hasten the rotting and shredding action.

This is one good way of getting rid of the baskets of leaves which carpet the lawn each fall. Instead of burning them or sending them off for disposal, treasure them as free food for the soil.

It may take a little while to build up a sizeable compost pile but before you know it, your fertilizer factory will be in business. Next year's daffodils and tulips will be bursting forth in a blaze of glory from last year's leaves and debris.

Ex-MP Fears 'Deal' On Columbia Power

The economic destiny of British Columbia will depend on the settlement reached between the Canadian and United States governments for power development of the Columbia River waters.

This was the opinion of Leon J. Ladner, QC, of Vancouver, former MP, who addressed the Kiwanis Club Tuesday on the "Columbia River Power and Our Future."

The storage of waters and the development and sale of power on international rivers—one of the most controversial issues of the century—is now being discussed between the federal department of external affairs and the State Department of the United States.

Mr. Ladner said he favored a peaceful settlement of the problem, as long as it was not detrimental to Canada.

FUNDAMENTAL RIGHT

But he was strongly opposed to an agreement which would interfere with the Boundary Waters Act of 1909 which gives Canada complete "control of all its water on its own side of the line which flows across the boundary."

"The economic destiny of Western Canada and British Columbia affecting the welfare and happiness of generations unborn is at stake over this question," he said. "Undoubtedly the same applies in respect to Western United States."

"The problem must be solved," he said, "but the government should stop meddling with the Waters Act of 1909 affecting our rights."

HEALTH PLAN REVIEWED

Insurance Empires Ruled Out in U.K.

Basic principles of Britain's national health scheme is that no agencies act on behalf of the government and "no great insurance empires are built up," Sir Hugh Linstead, MP, and secretary of the Pharmaceutical Society of Great Britain, said here.

He was addressing a public dinner at the Empress Hotel attended by Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross and Mrs. Ross, Health Minister Eric Martin and Mayor Percy Scutcheon, President of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association, D. A. Denholm, Vancouver, was chairman.

Sir Hugh called Britain's health scheme "a great social experiment," culmination of a long period of social services dating back to 1908.

One thing to be avoided in any similar scheme, he said, is to keep civil servants "unregulated." It is essential professional people retain their status, as only in this way can service be up to standard.

"It is improper and unwise that at any time the State come between the patient and the physician."

Two Servicemen Freed on Charge Of Ballroom Entry

Charges of breaking and entering Victoria Ballroom laid against two young servicemen Oct. 16 were dismissed in city police court Tuesday after a lengthy trial.

Freed were Eugene R. Durand, HMCS Naden, and Edward Scott, Queen's Own Rifles. They were arrested, along with Leonard McNeil, QOR, after they were found inside the ballroom about 4 a.m.

The charge against McNeil was previously withdrawn when prosecutor Alan Bigelow said the soldier was "too drunk to know what he was doing."

In dismissing the charges against the other two men today, Magistrate H. C. Hall said he did not think the "actual fact of a physical break-in" had been established and the Criminal Code sections dealing with the charge were not clear.

Defence counsel for the servicemen contended the doors of the ballroom were open when they entered.

McNeil and Scott were defended by Joseph McKenna and Durand by James Proudfoot.

Mr. McKenna claimed his two clients had a "lawful excuse" for being in the ballroom because they thought there was a dance in progress.

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY Mrs. Sam Barker (MOTHER OF 3)

If baby is bottle-fed, the proper selection and care of nipples is most important.

- Be sure to buy firm nipples. The normal development of your baby's mouth depends upon the sucking exercise he gets. Firm nipples encourage good sucking action.
- Clean nipples thoroughly after using since butter fat deteriorates rubber.
- Store in a cool, dark place. Heat and sun cause rubber to soften.
- Rubber nipples swell after repeated boilings. Don't let baby nurse from a softened or swollen nipple.

Good starting point! When your doctor says baby is ready for cereal, you'll get him off to a good solid start with Gerber's 5 Cereals—Rice, Barley, Oatmeal, Wheat and Mixed Cereal, make it so easy to introduce cereal variety to baby.

They're notable for bland, but pleasant flavors and a creamy-smooth consistency that feels good on baby's tongue. All five are enriched with iron, calcium and important B-vitamins. All are pre-cooked so you simply add milk or formula—stir and serve.

First tries with cereal will go more smoothly if you make the mixture quite soupy at first, so it will be similar in consistency to the formula baby's been used to.

Nutrition notation. A specialty for your special one! Gerber Strained Orange Juice is made from tree-ripened oranges, selected for mild flavor and high vitamin-C content. By the way, the vitamin-C level is guaranteed so baby is assured of the full benefit of this important vitamin. Careful pasteurization makes it absolutely pure for baby—careful straining makes it easy to feed from spoon, bottle or cup. Gerber Baby Foods, Niagara Falls, Canada.

Dissension Hits Canadian Reds

TORONTO (CP) — Resignations and outspoken speeches by top Labor-Progressive party leaders indicate dissension and defection have struck the ranks of Canadian Communists.

Open signs of party ferment have appeared in the LPP newspaper Canadian Tribune in recent weeks.

Ross Dowson, a Toronto Trotskyite Communist with friends in the LPP, said in an interview that "hundreds have left the party in the last couple of months." He said J. B. Salsberg of Toronto, LPP national executive member, appears to be the leader of a rebellious faction that wants to reorientate the party along more democratic and Canadian lines.

Dowson, a former leader of the Anti-Stalinist workers Revolutionary Party which disbanded in 1952, added that Tim Buck "won't last for long" as party leader.

EVENTS HIT HARD

It is apparent old allegiances were shattered in the weeks after Nikita Khrushchev's exposure of the crimes of Joseph Stalin. Now troubles in Poland and Hungary threaten further demoralization.

That numbers have resigned from the LPP is certain. The Canadian Tribune in an editorial urged the return of not only the six Communists who resigned in Quebec but of "others who have followed."

In the same editorial The Tribune referred to promises of greater freedom of discussion given by party leaders and said that "words are not enough."

First outward sign of the party's plight appeared two weeks ago in the resignation of national executive member Gui Caron and five other leading Quebec Communists, three of them also on the national executive.

In a "letter" to all LPP clubs, Caron called for "a decisive break" with subservience to Moscow. He "scuttled" the concept of dictatorship of the proletariat in favor of parliamentary principles of government. And he squared off at Buck himself.

OBJECT OF CULT
Buck, he said, is the object of a "cult of the individual." He accused him of keeping details of Stalin's crimes from party members, of "continuing to minimize and push aside the question of what happened in the Soviet Union and why it happened."

Then, at two party meetings in Toronto last week, Salsberg denounced the Soviet party line.

Both Caron and Salsberg had stood isolated last July 31 at a meeting of the national committee when it decided to reverse its stand criticizing the inadequacy of Khrushchev's "explanation" of Stalin's crimes. They alone voted for continued defiance of Moscow.

Since then Caron has quit the party, damning it as incapable of becoming "genuinely Canadian and genuinely democratic." But not Salsberg.

His revolt inside the party is based largely on opposition to Soviet anti-Jewish actions. A Jew, Salsberg was member for Toronto-St. Andrew's in the Ontario legislature for 12 years. At the July 31 meeting of the LPP executive he and Caron stood alone on another issue — criticism of the "is. attitude toward the Jewish people."

HAD CRITICIZED

This was only two months after Salsberg returned to the national executive from a year-long suspension, imposed because of his continued criticism of Soviet treatment of Jews. Party leaders conceded his criticism may have been justified.

In his Toronto speeches last week, he told party members: "Do not follow the Moscow line of forced integration of racial groups." He also deplored Soviet opposition to the formation of the state of Israel on the ground that "it shows lack of faith in the Jewish Communist."

Differences of opinion within the party undoubtedly will be a major subject of debate at the national convention here in January.

Canada's New Jets So Loud Remote Airfields Needed

By DAVE MCINTOSH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's new CF-105 supersonic jet fighters will make so much noise it may be necessary to operate them from remote airfields, says a Canadian aircraft engineer.

Writing in the current issue of Canadian Aeronautical Journal, G. R. Gibson, flight test engineer with Avro aircraft Ltd., Malton, Ont., says the noise generated by the CF-105 may bring strong complaints or even vigorous legal action from persons living near the airfields where they are based.

He says: "There is no method at present available which will reduce aircraft taxiing and takeoff noise to any great extent."

The answer to this problem seems to be for an arrangement to operate all aircraft which cause noise annoyance from some remotely located airdrome.

20,000-POUND THRUST

The jet engine for the CF-105 being developed by Avro has a design thrust of more than 20,000 pounds. It is understood that the first CF-105 accepted by the RCAF will be based at Upplands, a civilian field on Ottawa's outskirts.

GOLD PIECE on top is worth $3,250; was minted in U.S. in 1907, one of only 16 made. Hand-hammered thin gold piece below was made in England in 1584; is now worth $200. They will be among 2,000 coins on public display here at Art Gallery, Moss Street, Nov. 11-25. Coins date back to biblical times; will include Russian platinum piece.

COINS GALORE

Art Gallery Will Delight Numismatists

International attention of numismatists—coin collectors—will focus on Victoria Nov. 11 to 25 with the showing at the Victoria Art Gallery of a collection of coins and paper currency insured for $50,000.

Approximately 2,000 coins and 40 rare bills will be on display for the public, sponsored by the 25-member Victoria Numismatic Society.

Every precaution will be taken to insure the collections' safety, with a guard on hand at all times, both day and night.

Among items to be shown will be a rare platinum coin, minted in Russia in the early 1890s, worth approximately $35 today. It is the only one of its kind known to be in a B.C. collector's hands.

Also an eye-catcher of beauty will be a 1907 $20 gold piece today worth $3,250. Only 16 of these were struck and one was auctioned in Chicago last July for this price.

Also on display will be Elizabethan gold pieces of 30 shillings, minted in 1584, and now worth about $200 each.

Bills from the first bank started in the province, the MacDonald Bank, dating back to 1859's gold rush days and used throughout the territory will be displayed.

From Vancouver and Seattle coin collectors will come to see the show.

There are about 1,500 recognized coin collectors in Canada and 27,000 in the United States.

Teacher Creating 61-Acre Classroom

STEELETON, Pa. (UP)—Biology teacher James Killinger of Steelton, Pa., is transforming an isolated Perry County farm into a 61-acre "classroom."

The high school teacher has planted red pine for wildlife shelter areas and placed corn and wheat feeding stations around his farm. He added a pond during the summer.

"I originally bought the farm as a sheltered place to go on weekends," Killinger said. "Then, because I was a biology teacher, I began to think of it as a place to project my own ideas of wildlife research."

Students at Steelton High joined in the project. The farm is not yet ready for classes, but the youngsters are contributing rabbits caught near their homes.

"My biggest problem right now," Killinger declares, "is the lack of a tractor. I'd like to plant buckwheat and legumes for the animals, but so far I've been unable to do so."

CALLAS MAKES MET. DEBUT

Opera Legend Lives as Diva Opens Season With 'Norma'

By W. G. ROGERS

NEW YORK (AP)—A legend came to life Monday night as Maria Meneghini Callas made her debut in the title role of Bellini's Norma for the opening of the Metropolitan Opera's 72nd season.

It was her debut in her native city, too. Born here 33 years ago, she began her career in Greece and made her name at La Scala in Milan.

No other singer new to the Met in the last decade has arrived with such an advance buildup of rumors and reports and stories about her voice and, in particular, her prima donna's temperament.

General manager Rudolf Bing provided a distinguished supporting cast, using for the three other principals singers who have already appeared in Met openings.

Fedora Barbieri sang Adalgisa, Mario del Monaco sang Pollione, and Cesare Siepi was Oroveso. Fausto Cleva conducted.

With long red golden hair and a svelte and imposing figure, Madame Callas looked the part of the barbarian Briton priestess who forgot her vows and fell in love with the conquering Roman consul Pollione.

VOICE UNDERNOURISHED

Her sweet and touching voice, although it seemed to lack opulence, sounded undernourished. She was dynamic but lacked presence, yet her voice was strictly under discipline, as was her acting.

The public gave her an extra warm welcome for filling a role that makes exhausting demands on any soprano.

But there was an equally warm welcome for the other singers. There was no doubt that Mme. Callas was responsible for the jammed house that included hundreds of opera notables, diplomats, society figures and others.

Financially it was the Metropolitan's most successful opening night—a take of more than $75,500 from a capacity audience of 3,806.

Watchman Gagged

VANCOUVER (CP)—Bound and gagged by thieves, night watchman T. George Larkins of the Vancouver Curling Club was found six hours later when an iceman called at the club.

Cotten is hosting, narrating and starring in the "On Trial" telefilms on NBC and popping up on all home screens these days in old movies. One of them is "The Farmer's Daughter," which won Loretta Young an Oscar in 1947. A rare memory note from Cotten about the film:

"David O. Selznick bought the story for Ingrid Bergman before she walked out on him."

ARLENE DAHL interviewed Sir Winston Churchill for her beauty column and when she asked him his idea of a beautiful woman, the old diplomat replied: "My wife." . . . ## NERVOUS MARILYN BLINKS

'Oh, Neighbors' Queen Tells Star

LONDON (AP)—Marilyn Monroe met the Queen Monday night. They found they're neighbors. Marilyn was one of a group of international movie stars presented to the Queen at the annual Royal Command Film performance.

The Queen asked, "How do you like living in Windsor?" A nervous Marilyn blinked and asked, "What?"

Then she said, "I understand we lived in Englefield Green."

"Oh, neighbors," insisted Queen Elizabeth.

She explained that Englefield Green, where Marilyn and her husband, Arthur Miller have rented a large manor, is near Windsor Castle, one of the homes of the Royal Family.

WAR MOVIE
The movie the Queen saw was The Battle of the River Plate, about the battle between the German pocket battleship Graf Spee and three British cruisers off the South American coast in 1939.

Most of the movie beauties who met the Queen were dressed demurely. The daringly-low necklines raised eyebrows at last year's command performance.

Marilyn's gold-tissue gown was the most revealing. It rested several inches down her famous bosom.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Ronnie Herring, aged 13, of Tulsa, Okla., for his question:

What Does a Chamois Skin Come From?
As we all know, a good way to earn 50c is to wash and polish the family car. Naturally, we finish off the job with a soft chamois cloth—pronounced shammy. There was a time when the softest polishing rags were made from real chamois skin. But this tricky animal is too rare and too hard to catch to supply all our polishing needs. So we treat and soften sheep and goat skins to make our buffing rags. Your job on the car will look just as good, even if your shammy did not come from a real chamois. Even in his native Alps, the chamois is considered a rare and valuable catch. A hunter good enough to bring him down wears a tassel of chamois hairs in his hat. Such a trophy proves a hunter to be tops. For the chamois is one of the tip-top mountaineers in the world. His family is Bovidae which makes him kin to the sheep, the goat, the antelope and all the cattle.

Chummy is a beagle-terrier character, available only because his former people hadn't enough time to spend with him; male, 2½ years.

Good, sound combination of collie and Labrador is Sparky, patient with kids, friendly to one and all.

Detective Admits Advising Gamblers

CP and BUP Dispatches

VANCOUVER — A gambling squad detective admitted in police court here Tuesday he had given advice to club officials charged with keeping a gaming house on the legality of their operations.

Detective James Frew made the admission under cross-examination by lawyer Thomas Dohm, appearing for the operators of the Cordial Club.

Nineteen persons and three companies are charged with keeping a gaming house at the club following a bingo raid on the premises.

Frew said he advised the club on the legality of certain of its operations, had warned them to stop giving certain prizes such as jackpots, and had also given the name applied to a series of games held at the club. Frew said he devised the name "Equalizer" for a series of games to make certain the service charge of a club didn't exceed the legal 50-cent limit.

AIRPORT SALE DROPPED

CHUCK SPEISER FIGHTS WILLI HOEPNER ON C-5 AT 7

NEXT TUESDAY—If the race between Dwight D. Eisenhower, Republican standard-bearer, and Adlai E. Stevenson, Democratic aspirant, for the presidency of the United States is a close one, next Tuesday evening might well turn out to be one of the most exciting nights of the television year.

Be this as it may, one thing is certain. Programs on all channels will be disrupted for spot election news and coast-to-coast network hook-ups. Even Vancouver's Channel 2 will be caught up in the general excitement.

Here, for your information, is the CBC's intended coverage.

RADIO: Broadcasts start at 6 p.m. All regular programs will be cancelled.

TELEVISION: On Tuesday reports will begin at 4.30 p.m. on Channel 2. There will be the usual CBUT programs, but bulletins on the progress of the election will be read between each program.

6.45: News: Most of this 15-minute newscast will be devoted to election results.

7.30: B.C. Round Table. Second in a new series of discussion programs originating in Vancouver. A group of persons will discuss the U.S. election, and the effects it will have.

10-11: A "live" pick-up from NBC with a commentary by Peter Inglis, associate editor of a mainland newspaper.

11.05: News. Specific information and results.

11.15: Continuation of the pick-up from NBC. If by this time, however, the result of the election is apparent then the program at this time will consist of footage taken earlier in the day from NBC material.

So, as you can see, if you're not interested in viewing the outcome of the U.S. elections it might not be a bad idea to pack the family off to a good movie.

Kiddies' Korner

5.00: Hidden Pages, Channel 2; Damon Runyon Theatre, 4; Mickey Mouse Club, 5; Cartoon Special, 11; Western movie, 12.

5.30: Rin Tin Tin, Channel 2; Hi-Jinks, 13.

6.00: My Little Margie, Channel 4; Western Marshal, 5; Cartoon Theatre, 12. 6.05: Santa Claus show, 13.

7.30: Sheena, Queen of the Jungle, Channel 4.

7.45: Disneyland, Channel 2; I Search For Adventure, 5.

8.00: Disneyland, Channel 5.

The occasion was an informal luncheon organized by the city and the Victoria Chamber of Commerce to honor the agent-general who has represented the province since 1933 in Britain.

Student Stowaway Jailed in Britain

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng. (CP)—A New York law student, Eliezer Perr, 18, was sent to prison Tuesday for 14 days for stowing away in the liner Queen Elizabeth on the run from New York to Britain. Prosecuting counsel said Eliezer went aboard the liner to see a friend off and then mingled with the passengers. He spent most of his time in the ship's synagogue, where he slept.

Social Credit's platform in the federal election, expected next June, will be outlined by national leader Solon Low at the three-day convention of the B.C. Social Credit League in Vancouver Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Victoria will send a delegation of 25 led by John D. Johnson, president of the Victoria Social Credit Constituency Association.

"It will be the biggest convention since the league was formed in B.C.," Mr. Johnson said today. "We expect about 700 delegates from all over the province."

Sessions open in the Georgia Auditorium Thursday with a meeting of the provincial women's organization.

Premier Bennett will address the convention Thursday and Solon Low will speak at a victory banquet in the Hotel Vancouver Friday night.

Noel Murphy, president of the B.C. League, will be chairman of convention sessions.

Suez Occupation To Go Ahead Bombers Sent Against Egypt

Britain "Will Do What We Said"—Eden

Angry Exchanges Mark Debate On Mid-East in British Commons

LONDON (Reuters) — Britain today made clear that Anglo-French forces would move into the Suez Canal zone despite United States opposition.

Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons: "We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

Shortly after his speech an of- ficial British statement from Nic- osia, Cyprus said: "An air offen- sive by bomber aircraft under Al- lied command is at this moment being launched against military targets in Egypt."

Eden said that the Anglo-French request Tuesday to Egypt to al- low troops to enter the three main canal zone towns still was open. He told the House — puzzled be- cause prior to the Nicosia official the future.

Defends British Veto in UN

Eden defended his policy against a barrage of Labor criticism for failing to discuss the Anglo-French decision beforehand with the United States.

He also defended Britain's veto of a U.S. resolution before the United Nations Security Council Tuesday calling for a ceasefire in the two-day-old war and with- drawal of Israeli forces to within their own borders.

Eden said: "The moment that the French government and our- selves had reached the conclusions about what we should do I au- thorized the dispatch of a full mes- sage to the United States explain- ing our action before even coming down to this House."

Eden also said Britain must protect her vital interests in the Mid- dle East with or without prior agreement of the United States.

He told the House of Commons: "We cannot accept that we have to obtain the agreement of the United States before acting in our own vital interests."

In what amounted to an appeal for U.S. understanding, the prime minister said: "It is sometimes a govern- ment's duty to take decision for its own country."

Eden refused to give any de- tails on action to be taken by British and French forces.

In an angry exchange, Labor leader Hugh Gaitskell shouted: "This is really a fantastic situa- tion. It is the whole House and the whole country which is wait- ing for an answer to this ques- tion."

Amid Opposition demands of "answer, answer" the prime min- ister said if Gaitskell had read the statement issued by the British and French governments Tues- day, he would see the statement made it clear that if agreement was not reached they would con- sider themselves free — (Here the prime minister's words were lost in the angry Opposition roar).

OPPOSITION IN UPROAR

There was a terrific roar from the Opposition when James Calla- han, Labor, said he wanted to ask the prime minister the question which 50,000,000 Britons wanted answered: "Are British troops engaged in Continued on Page 2"

No Planes, Ships From Canada—PM

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian government today decided to suspend "for the time being" all shipment of arms to Israel.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Egypt also would get no arms if she asked for them.

The prime minister also said Canada did not intend to send planes or ships to the troubled area.

He also told reporters follow- ing a three-hour extraordinary cabinet meeting on the Middle East crisis that he has made no decision to recall parliament and hoped that such a recall would not be necessary.

He sidestepped a question as to whether the suspension of arms shipments to Israel im- plied Canadian government criti- cism of Israel's invasion of Egypt.

He said it meant only that the government had taken under review the question of whether Canada should allow the export of 24 Sabre jets to Israel.

None of the Canadian jets for Israel has been delivered yet. In addition to the planes, the suspension order would cover other small and routine ship- ments of arms, such as mortar and artillery shells and spare parts for military vehicles.

Mr. St. Laurent said he be- lieves Canada's present military forces are "quite sufficient for our requirements" and did not Continued on Page 2

EISENHOWER BROADCAST AT 4 P.M.

WASHINGTON (UP) — President Eisenhower will make a radio and tele- vision report to the U.S. at 7 p.m. (4 p.m. Victoria time) on the Middle East crisis.

The president's speech, from his White House of- fice, will be carried by all the radio and television networks in the U.S. and Canada.

Cairo Claims City Hit Navy Also in Action

LONDON (CP) — British bombers attacked military targets in Egypt today.

Cairo radio reported the Egyptian capital was attacked this eve- ning with incendiary and high explosive bombs.

The British defence ministry said combined Anglo-French air and sea operations had begun under command of Gen. Sir Charles Keight- ley.

First word of the attack came from Cyprus, where British and French paratroopers had been poised for nearly three months.

There was no mention of ground forces.

The announcement said combined aerial and naval bombardments began at 6.40 p.m. Egyptian time (8.40 a.m. Victoria time) against points in the Suez Canal area.

A British-French ultimatum, demanding that Egypt and Israel cease hostilities and that the fighting forces of both sides keep clear of a zone 10 miles on either side of the canal, expired 14 hours earlier. Israel accepted it on the con- dition that Egypt would agree.

A Cairo communique said: "British rocket planes car- ried out an air attack on the city of Cairo at seven o'clock this evening."

The communique continued: "They dropped incendiaries and high explosive bombs. There were no casualties, but some material losses were caused."

British officials in London said only this to say of the radio report that Cairo had been bombed.

"Bomber aircraft are operat- ing against military targets only and Cairo is not a military target."

This left the possibility that military installations in the Cairo vicinity had been sought out.

Earlier in the day British broadcasts had warned Egyp- tians to keep away from their airfields.

Late tonight Cairo radio was heard in London quoting an Egyptian headquarters commu- nique that British planes had raided Alexandria, Cairo, Port Said and Ismailia.

CD PLANNERS RUSHING PREPARATION

Citizens Get Evacuation Plan This Week; Want Volunteers

A printed evacuation plan and map will be given Greater Vic- toria householders in the next few days.

A practice evacuation of the city and district will be discus- sed at an early meeting of the local CD board.

An appeal for volunteer "block wardens" was issued to- day by Mayor Percy Scurrell.

Drivers were warned to keep a half-tankful of gas in their cars at all times.

In the event of evacuation, citizens of this area will be moved into the homes of up- Island residents at a ratio of three to one.

Buses, trains and ships have been arranged for in the event of a full-scale war comes to this area.

These were the facts reported by city and provincial civil de- fence heads today when pre- sented with the question: "Is Victoria ready for war?"

They pointed out, today's state of preparedness was also yesterday's.

The area was moving toward completion of a full-scale evac- uation plan for months previous to the emergent state of the world today.

Mayor Scurrell, chairman of the Greater Victoria Civil De- fence Control Board, and Major- General C. R. Stein, head of provincial CD, agree plans are far enough advanced to move the population of this area far from danger.

"It can be done. But it will be rugged. It will be a ques- tion of survival," said Maj.-Gen. Stein.

He suggested the most im- portant preparations lie with the citizens. They should, in event of evacuation, follow the evacuation plan, have gas, food and clothing for two or three days.

There are no stockpiles of emergency supplies in cushion areas.

"But the people would be taken care of. Victoria would feed them out and as they ar- rive up-Island they would be fanned out three to one to the existing population."

Big Shift Forced In Russian Policy

(See Also Page 18)

MOSCOW (AP) — In a major policy shift, the Soviet Union says it wants all the Communist coun- tries to be completely sovereign, and is willing to talk about the disposition of Soviet troops in Hun- gary, Poland and Romania.

An unusual declaration issued by the government Tuesday night was interpreted by diplomatic ob- servers as indicating Moscow was seeking a graceful way out of an increasingly embarrassing situa- tion within the Communist camp.

The Soviet troops in Poland, Hungary and Romania are there under terms of the Warsaw pact, a Russian-commanded mutual defence alliance formed last year by the Soviet Union and her East- ern European allies.

Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov told Western correspond- ents that all the pact members would have to agree to the with- drawal of Soviet troops from Hun- gary, a major demand of the re- bels there.

There was no mention in the declaration of Soviet troops in East Germany.

There are now only three provin- cial governments that are Lib- eral: Newfoundland, Prince Ed- ward Island and Manitoba.

The Conservatives also have three provinces. They are: Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario.

TORIES WHOOP IT UP OVER WIN IN N.S.

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Cocky Conservatives were celebrating here Wednesday the end of 23 years of Liberal rule in Nova Scotia, where Tues- day the PCs won 23 out of 43 seats. (See story, Page 6.)

They are predicting that simi- lar all-out organizational efforts would bring the same results in Manitoba during the provincial election there expected in 1957.

There are now only three provin- cial governments that are Lib- eral: Newfoundland, Prince Ed- ward Island and Manitoba.

The Conservatives also have three provinces. They are: Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario.

DEATHLESS DAY NO. 7

Days to go: 63.

Fatalities since Oct. 22: 1.

Accidents (causing injury): 14.

Deaths since Jan. 1: 16.

For the first day since the Times began its "deathless days" campaign, Oct. 22, no injury-causing accidents were reported today in the past 24 hours from the four Greater Victoria munici- palities.

Looks like they twisted th' lions tail till he felt it right up in th' neck.

... EDEN

Egypt at this moment or if not where are they," he demanded.

The prime minister rose. He said "I said yesterday... Uproar from the Opposition benches drowned his voice.

Pressed further by Gaiskell, to give an answer, the prime minister began: "I am not in any way prepared to give the House any details..."

There was another car-splitting uproar from the Opposition. Members leaned forward and booed the prime minister while others yelled "resign."

All through the uproar, Sir Winston Churchill looked grim and unsmiling.

Eventually Eden said: "I am not prepared to give the House any details of the action which will follow the statement I clearly made yesterday that British and French forces will intervene in whatever strength may be needed."

"We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

The decision to intervene was given a 270-to-218 vote of confidence in the House of Commons Tuesday, mostly along party lines.

"THERE IS NO BASIS"

Labor Leader Hugh Gaiskell said: "There is nothing in the United Nations charter which justifies any nation appointing itself as world policeman. The great danger is that if we can do this so can anybody else."

Labor member Christopher Mayhew said Eden was using the Egyptian-Israeli battle as a pre- to regain control of the canal.

In defending his decision, Eden said that all he wanted was that "Anglo-French forces should move temporarily—repeat temporarily—into key positions at Port Said, Ismailia, and Suez."

"The last thing we want is an enduring commitment of that kind. We intend their presence at key points to be merely temporary."

The Times says "there are evidence risks in the manner, and in the timing, of the Anglo-French counteraction which cannot be ignored." But, he adds, "boldness often pays" and "there must be every hope that it will do so now."

"ACT OF FOLLY"

The Liberal paper Manchester Guardian, viewing the move as an "act of folly," says it was made "without justification in any terms but brief expediency." It describes the move as pouring "fuel on a growing fire" and says there is no way of knowing "what kind of explosion will follow."

Supporting Eden, the tabloid London Daily Sketch says: "Never has a statesman been so soon and so fully justified in unpopular decisions as Anthony Eden has been over his military preparations in the Middle East."

FAST SUEZ MOVES KEEP TIMES SIGN MEN BUSY

The fast-moving events in the Suez situation today had Times bulletin staffers doing a merry chase attempting to keep the Times news sign at Oak Bay junction up-to-date.

For early morning traffic coming into town the sign read that landings in Suez had started. This had hardly gone up when Prime Minister Eden made it clear to the British Commons that landings hadn't yet begun. The sign was promptly changed.

But within minutes the official announcement came that bomber operations against Egyptian military installations were under way.

The sign changers went to work again.

for Britain and France to reverse their announced intention to put troops near the Suez Canal in the mid-afternoon Tuesday. The statement made clear that Eisenhower had received his first word of the British and French intentions through news dispatches.

Exchange of information between Britain and France on one hand and Washington on the other has been dropping off for some time. Some officials feel there has been a virtual blackout of communications with London.

KNE WIN ADVANCE?

U.S. state department officials are making no attempt to conceal a growing suspicion—for which apparently they have no hard evidence—that France and possibly Britain had known ahead of time of Israel's plan to launch a major military operation against Egypt.

Eisenhower has put the rest of his political schedule on a day-to-day basis.

Six of Nine Polls Favor Eisenhower

NEW YORK (CP)—Six of nine news agencies, magazines and newspapers, conducting state-by-state surveys of the United States election picture predict that President Eisenhower will win when the ballots are counted next Tuesday.

The other three agree that the president is leading.

The surveys, some incomplete, vary in their forecasts of the president's probable margin of victory over Adlai Stevenson but all predict it will be closer than the 42-to-89 edge in electoral votes that Eisenhower gained over his Democratic challenger in 1952.

Time magazine gives the most optimistic view of the president's chances—a total of 384 votes to 147 for Stevenson. Estimates of Stevenson's possible strength range up to a high of 248 electoral votes.

With almost equal unanimity, the surveys predict that the Democrats will retain control of both houses of Congress.

"Needless to say," Stevenson said "this proposal was dismissed by the administration even as they are now dismissing my suggestion that we take prompt steps to stop the experimental explosion of hydrogen bombs."

Eisenhower has put the rest of his political schedule on a day-to-day basis.

before the present state of tension, is to be held at Courtenay Saturday and Sunday to go over the detailed reception area planning and clarify instructions to the public.

FROM OTTAWA

Maj.-Gen. Stein said he could not say at what point in a war an evacuation order would come.

"It would come direct from the federal government. It might be two or three days notice; it might be more; it might be a matter of hours."

Mayor Scurrah said the Victoria district evacuation plan is ready and is now being printed. It will be distributed "in the next few days."

He said there is sufficient trained CD personnel to care for evacuation of hospitals, elderly people and the helpless.

"There are insufficient numbers to carry out the complete scheme, however," he stated. "We need several hundred volunteers to act as block wardens."

It would be their duty to keep evacuation orderly, check to see drivers had enough gas, that families carried enough clothing, food and other supplies, listed in the forthcoming handbook.

ESCAPE ROUTES

He said the handbook will also contain an evacuation map which will give direction as to escape routes from the city. He said that to the best of his knowledge buses, trails, ships have been lined up to assist in evacuating those unable to travel in private cars.

The army and navy would work in co-operation with civil defence authorities but would be prepared to take over if requested, the mayor said.

Altogether there are 500 to 600 civil defence workers now trained in the area, the mayor said. Civil defence office said there is a potential of about 3,000, including 135 police and special police to ensure against looting, a force of 200 firemen and special CD medical corps of 1,000.

Ald. W. F. Pinfold, member of the control board who recently advocated a practice evacuation, said he will promote that action as a meeting to be held "as soon as possible."

A meeting was scheduled for Tuesday but was called off due to the illness of local co-ordinator Roger Peachey. He was still absent from duty today.

Ald. Pinfold said Victoria is classified as one of Canada's 13 top target areas.

need strengthening. He added, in reply to further questioning, that Canada did not intend to send planes or ships to the troubled area.

The ministers appeared deeply concerned as they emerged from the morning session.

Prior to the Cabinet meeting, Mr. St. Laurent told reporters that if Parliament is recalled it would not be to declare war but for the government to submit its attitude on the Middle East situation.

When they entered the Cabinet meeting neither Mr. St. Laurent nor External Affairs Minister Pearson had any information to confirm that Anglo-French forces have landed in the Suez Canal area.

Later reports from London indicated that the landing had not taken place at the time the Cabinet was assembling.

Steel Blackjacks Used in Attack

VANCOUVER (CP)—Assault with five-pound blackjacks, termed by police as "the most vicious in years," sent one man to hospital and injured two others here Tuesday night.

Two Agassiz men, Albert Arthur Evans and Gordon Harold Laughington, both 22, were arrested shortly after the attack and charged with assault.

Police seized a blackjack fashioned from a steel bar weighted by lead balls.

UN Dismayed, Britain, France Twice Use Vetos

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Britain and France used their vetoes twice Tuesday night to tie the hands of the United Nations Security Council in the Israeli-Egyptian fighting while they rushed troops toward the Suez Canal zone.

Their actions here and in the Mediterranean shocked and dismayed United Nations diplomats and drove a deep wedge into their alliance with the United States.

The vetoes were viewed as a hard blow to the 11-member council's prestige, already lowered by 78 Soviet vetoes in 11 years. They highlighted a council sitting lasting 12 hours, with time out only for lunch and dinner.

The council adjourned only 27 minutes before the deadline (8:30 p.m. Victoria time) set by Britain and France for Egyptian-Israeli agreement to their proposal to land troops along the waterway nationalized by Egypt July 26 if fighting did not cease in 12 hours. Israel agreed but Egypt refused.

ANOTHER MEETING

Another council meeting was scheduled for this afternoon to take up an Egyptian charge that Britain and France were committing aggression. Egypt said that until the council took "necessary measures, Egypt has no choice but to defend itself."

Britain and France argued the council could not act swiftly enough to halt the fighting and prevent interference with canal traffic. Accordingly both vetoed:

1. A U.S. resolution calling on Israel and Egypt immediately to cease fire, on Israel to withdraw its armed forces from Egypt and on all UN members to avoid using force in the area or giving Israel military, economic or financial aid in her operation. The vote was 7 to 2, with Australia and Belgium abstaining.

2. A Soviet resolution that amounted to the U.S. proposal with its teeth pulled, calling only for a cease-fire and withdrawal of Israeli troops. The vote was 7 to 2 with Belgium and the U.S. abstaining.

PLEAS TURNED DOWN

U.S. delegate Henry Cabot Lodge introduced his resolution as a "first and imperative step" toward ending the fighting, and turned down pleas from Sir Pierson Dixon of Britain and Bernard Cornut-Gentile of France that he drop the proposal.

Lodge said if Israel complied with the U.S. demand, the basis for the British-French ultimatum would disappear. He rejected any implication "that the United States considered under any circumstances that the British-French ultimatum was justifiable."

Later Lodge said he had abstained from voting on the Soviet amendment because its removal of certain elements from the U.S. proposal had killed its "integrity."

Soviet delegate Arkady A. Sobolev said the Western vetoes meant "a black day for the Security Council." He accused Britain and France of using Israel as an instrument to justify seizure of the Suez Canal.

Dixon contended that Britain and France were acting in an urgent situation "on well-founded international grounds... to do what the world needs."

Louis de Guiranguad of France, sitting in for Cornut-Gentile Tuesday night, argued that Egypt's President Nasser must be stopped.

He sided with Israeli delegate Abba Eban, who said Israel was obliged to undertake the military action to wipe out commando bases inside Egypt.

Pearson Regrets UK Action While UN Discussing Crisis

Of Intervention by Telephone

By VICTOR MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—Hon. L. B. Pearson, secretary of state for external affairs, voicing the Canadian government's reaction to the British-French armed intervention in the Middle East, said here Tuesday.

"We regret that they found it necessary to take this action," while the Security Council is considering the crisis.

Mr. Pearson was asked if he was implying criticism of the move by the British and French in sending armed forces into the Suez Canal zone following the warlike action of invading Egypt by Israel.

"No, I am implying no criticism. I am merely saying that the British and French state that they considered it 'necessary' and we regret that they found it 'necessary' to take such action while the Security Council of the UN was discussing the matter," Mr. Pearson said.

He spoke at a tense press conference convened at the request of members of the Parliamentary Press Gallery to discuss the explosive situation in the Suez.

He said it was unlikely Canada would become involved in a shooting war because of the developments.

Hungary Revolt Most Important

Mr. Pearson, in reply to questions, also dealt with developments in Hungary and Poland.

"Nothing that has happened since the Second World War is more important than the emergency of the forces of liberty in Hungary and Poland," he said.

It was significant that those in the forefront of the movement towards greater freedom from their Russian Communist masters, were students, he said.

The Russian Communists had concentrated on students in seeking to establish permanent control but the uprisings had shown that a spirit of liberty animated the people of those two countries behind the Iron Curtain.

"It is apparent that in a spiritual sense they have gained nothing under a Communist regime," he said.

Other points made by Mr. Pearson during the press conference:

(1)—Sale and shipment of 24 Sabre jets to Israel was under review by the Canadian government. Its decision will depend upon action taken by the United Nations.

(2)—Canada was not consulted in advance by Britain before the United Kingdom decided to dispatch troops to the Suez zone. Canada first learned of Britain's decision when the Canadian High Commissioner to the U.K. in London called Mr. Pearson by long-distance telephone Tuesday.

(3)—Mr. Pearson associated himself with the statement by President Eisenhower in which the president expressed the "strong hope" that the matter could be settled without the use of force.

(4)—Maj.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, chief of the UN truce supervision organization, is reporting directly to the UN on the hostilities and has not been in touch with his home government of Canada. Mr. Pearson said the Canadian government did not expect a report from Gen. Burns, it would properly go to the UN.

(5)—Arrangements are being made in co-operation with the United States to move Canadians out of the danger areas who are not in essential jobs. There are 70 in Egypt, 30 in Syria, four in Jordan and 341 in Israel.

OLD-AGE PENSION OF $60 B.C. AIM IN OTTAWA TALKS

Health Minister Eric Martin will ask the federal government to raise basic old age pensions from $40 to $60 a month.

Leaving for Ottawa today, the minister said he will recommend that the federal and provincial governments should each give an additional $10 a month to welfare recipients.

"There would be no reduction in the cost of living bonus," now $20, Mr. Martin said.

Boost for Tory Hopes

A DEFINITE TREND AGAINST the Liberal Party in Maritime politics, both provincial and federal, emerges from yesterday's upset election in Nova Scotia. Mr. Hicks, the Liberal leader, ascribes his defeat to local factors, such as the decline in the coal industry, and says it is "temporary"; but it would be extremely unwise for Liberals generally to dismiss this setback in a casual manner. They are in trouble.

In recent provincial elections the Liberals have held Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, but their losses in the other Maritimes provinces seem certain to be reflected in the next federal poll. It will be surprising indeed if the St. Laurent Government does not suffer substantial losses in Nova Scotia and New Brunswick. The Conservative Party at Ottawa has every right to be encouraged.

It is too early to say, however, that a national trend against the federal government has been revealed by the Conservative successes in the three provincial elections of Ontario, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. The Ontario voters have long supported their able provincial government under Premier Frost while voting Liberal in national affairs. The Conservative Government of New Brunswick deserved re-election on its own merits. Only in Nova Scotia has any sitting provincial government been defeated during the last two years. There alone have the voters indicated any strong protest against existing conditions.

After these local tests of opinion — apart from Nova Scotia — the federal Government may well argue that a public, pretty well satisfied with things as they are, will return the Liberal Party to national power next June. But the Government will be unwise to accept any such easy assumption.

While federal and provincial politics occupy two distinct compartments in the electoral mind the Government cannot shrug off the fact that the Liberal Party has been defeated, within two years, in British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Quebec, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia. Provincially it holds only Manitoba, Newfoundland and Prince Edward Island, all relatively small provinces.

The only safe conclusion to be drawn from these facts is that the St. Laurent Government has a fight on its hands.

To be sure, no Opposition Party is yet within sight of office and none can win so long as Quebec is solidly behind the Government. But the Government could suffer substantial losses, especially in Ontario.

Its mis-management of the last parliamentary session has damaged it. Its posture of complacency is out of date and should be immediately abandoned. Events must compel the Prime Minister, after a period of withdrawal, to resume his active leadership of Government, Party and nation.

The Big Budget

PREMIER BENNETT SAYS HIS next budget will be the largest in British Columbia's history. This is no surprise. Our provincial budgets have been increasing every year as they must in a growing province. They have been increasing faster than the province's growth, as they can when the Government maintains the highest taxes in Canada.

Quite properly, Mr. Bennett declines to forecast the figures of the next budget. The public has no right to expect this information, or the Government's taxation policies, until the annual budget speech is delivered. There is another matter on which the public deserves but is not getting information. Mr. Bennett will not tell it how much money he is currently collecting and spending. No one but the Government itself knows where our provincial affairs stand today.

The Federal Government issues, every month, a statement showing exactly how much money it has collected in that month and how much it has spent. Every citizen knows where our national affairs stand from month to month.

Why is the British Columbia Government so much less candid than the national Government? Mr. Bennett is always asserting that Social Credit, unlike other parties, confides in the people and hides nothing from them. Yet it stubbornly hides its current financial position. It refuses to let the public know about its own business and its own money between budget speeches.

In national politics the public, given the facts at frequent intervals, can debate budget policies intelligently in advance and public opinion is thus brought to bear upon those policies. In British Columbia there is no such opportunity. Mr. Bennett keeps the public's most important business to himself until he is ready to reveal it once a year. Then he introduces a budget which the Legislature obediently approves and that's that.

All the public knows at the moment is that Mr. Bennett's Government is enjoying unprecedented opulence. Its revenues are gigantic, as they ought to be at the present tax level. Recently, in a moment of candor, Mr. Bennett remarked that his revenue surplus this year was so large that he almost feared to divulge it to the voters. He needn't be afraid. The public will bear that news with fortitude.

To be sure, a revenue surplus is sometimes politically embarrassing to a government but the embarrassment is temporary. A sensible public has no wish to see its government incurring deficits at a time of unexampled prosperity. The only practical question here is how the government handles its surplus.

The present federal surplus is being used deliberately to reduce the national debt and to hold down the total money supply when it tends to exceed the supply of goods and to foment inflation.

Mr. Bennett's surplus, it is to be supposed (though we shall not know for sure until the next budget speech) is being spent as fast as it is collected. Unlike the federal surplus it thus represents nothing but a demand for goods and to that extent is inflationary.

However, if we are to have provincial spending at its present rate it is far better to spend current revenue for capital works like roads than to raise this money by borrowing—especially at the present high cost of money.

Since Mr. Bennett has not been borrowing in the money markets of late, we assume that he is able to finance huge capital works out of his revenue surplus and perhaps by temporary bank borrowings.

Quite rightly, he does not wish to float public loans while interest rates are high and will wait until they drop, if he can. Meanwhile he is denouncing high interest rates—an essential weapon against inflation—as an evil invention by a Federal Government determined to precipitate a depression.

Mr. Bennett's inflationist views are another matter. Apart altogether from his quarrel with the Federal Government (the overtone to his campaign in the next national election) the fact remains that the Federal Government gives us the current facts of our business. Mr. Bennett refuses to give them.

Warning on Slums

VICTORIANS, WHO NEVER tire of praise for their homes and gardens, have been brought up short by a planning expert.

Prof. Ira M. Robinson of the U.B.C. says three areas in the city are bordering on the slum stage. The streets in certain regions, he says, give an appearance of dereliction. A census discloses inadequate bathroom facilities. And, he points out, blight areas have a tendency to become a drag on municipal financing because they do not provide tax revenue equivalent to the services which they necessitate.

These are shocking statements to Victorians.

Beautification grants are planned for various projects to make this an even more beautiful capital. While they are being contemplated the attention of the citizens is drawn to the fact that one of the worst features of deterioration is already threatening the town.

In various other parts of the nation—and province—attention is being given to slum clearance. Maybe Victoria should come in from the garden and do a little serious thinking on the need for similar activity here.

Ask the Man Who Owns One

GREEN SURVIVAL

By B. A. TOBIN

The Eternal Force

THROUGH a tiny hole in the metal casing of a coffee shop window a minute sprout of green appears. Moistened by condensed steam running down the inside of the window pane, a grass seed has taken root inside the casing and is thrusting a speck of green through the hole towards the light. Its prospects of existence are small. It cannot be rooted in more than a pinch of dust. A dust cloth or vacuum cleaner will threaten its life periodically. Even if overlooked for a while it cannot achieve more than a slender green life in its present position. It's a "dead-end kid" of the grass world; it was licked before it started. Yet it lives, and fights for more life, just as much as though it were a man, a giant of the forest, a great commercial city, or a nation.

Tobin

That struggle can become murderous; the competition is for existence itself. A field of daisies is a glorious sight, yet each small plant spreads its leaves to get more sunlight at the expense of its neighbor, strains to extend its tiny roots to win the moisture its neighbor could use, spends its beautiful life in a grim, silent struggle against death from suffocation in the crowd.

Vital Links

The field mouse feeds and mates, in an almost mechanical process of sustaining its own life to the ultimate, breath and ensuring that the chain of life in which it is a vital link shall be extended. How many lesser things it kills, how many deaths from larger predators it dodges, only its instinctive abilities will determine.

In its humble way it is the prototype of all the community of living things—its destiny to feed, to escape, to procreate, at last to die.

Of all the creatures, only man has significantly changed the cycle. In some small measure he has eased life of its burden. Only in desperate circumstances—in which a considerable proportion of mankind still lives—does he kill his neighbor for gain.

Through a benign quality which needs constant encouragement he will help the weak instead of turning on them; he will spare the helpless even though their death would benefit him.

Most Deadly

Only when the pressure becomes too great does he revert to the savagery of life in the amoebe world of the roadside pond, to the barbarism of the jungle, the dog-eat-dog principle of the wilderness. Then he can become more deadly than all the lethal adventurers of the lower orders. He will transgress even the basic law of nature: he will destroy himself to destroy his enemy.

The same holds true of man the group as of man the individual. As a family, a tribe, a nation or a commonwealth, man portrays the same elemental principles. And as the individual has risen to such qualities as mercy and justice, sympathy, and altruism, so have the larger groups.

But they, too, can revert, through fear, through greed or blind brutishness. And today, like the individual, the nation too can destroy itself in destroying its enemy, and in destroying itself it could destroy the world.

But the great universe of plants and animals continues. The leaves thrust through the crack in the rock, the tree grasps the bare mountain peak with hungry roots, and the blade of grass pokes through a chance hole beside a window. There is no surrender.

As Our Readers See It

National Health Service

I should be interested to hear Sir Hugh Winstead try and substantiate his claim that the people in Britain are well satisfied with the National Health Service. It is well known that litigation against hospital authorities and doctors has risen seven hundred per cent since the service started in 1948.

This of course does not include the hundreds of complaints received annually by the local executive councils.

Sir Hugh might have informed his Canadian audience about the cost of this welfare state. Income tax now runs at 40c for each dollar earned. In addition there is a sales tax of 66.23 per cent on most goods sold and 100 per cent on such luxury goods as perfume and jewellery. National Health Insurance contributions are paid weekly by every employee who is also accountable for local rates and taxes.

Little wonder that Britain's gold and dollar reserves sink monthly, that the bank rate is highest since the dirty 30's, and that two budgets were required in 1955 to bolster the economy. Mr. Paul Martin is well advised to keep the price of National Health from the public. What mystifies me is why a Conservative MP comes to Canada to preach pandemic socialism.

In Freedom

We may readily see the great differences as to freedom and individual rights there are when we compare such countries as Britain and the Commonwealth nations, North America, Scandinavia, West Germany, Holland, etc. with others such as the Soviet Republic and its Satellite nations, France and Southern Europe, and South America, etc.

Making due allowances for racial differences and past inheritances it must be admitted that the reason for these marked differences is in their treatment of the Bible. The nations first named, despite their many faults and failings have respected that Book, and given freedom to its use according to each person's conscience, thus developing also a spirit of democracy.

But those other countries had for centuries allowed religious systems to prey upon and oppress the people, war against the Bible and its followers, thus individual rights were not tolerated.

In France this very program went on, many of her best citizens fled the country, thousands were put to death till at last the French Revolution took place and the Bible and Christianity were forbidden. So that in the words of another writer, "Unhappy France reaped in blood the harvest she had sown," from which France has never recovered.

In Russia also a similar religious power continued for centuries to dominate the nation, keeping the people in ignorance and denying them their rights. It was not till the First World War that a number of leaders in Russia revolted, deposing the Czarist government, abolishing the National church and opposing the Bible and all Christian teachings.

This was the beginning of the present Soviet rule, whose atheistic ideologies are being spread fast everywhere. The aftermath of this is current news today in Poland, and Hungary where again scenes of bloodshed follow.

The lesson we should learn is that the Bible, if given freedom, can bring its message of hope, light, and freedom, but when it is rejected, darkness, oppression and trouble inevitably result.

After 2,000 Years

Some correspondents in your recent issues question the statements of H. V. O'Reilly and of Marian N. Sherman that there is a growing trend away from the churches and especially the statement that there will be no congregations in 50 years time and that the churches will be "for sale."

Perhaps the latter statement is too optimistic as regards the time mentioned. There are so many people directly or indirectly making a living from organized religion that there will be plenty of propaganda, such as revival meetings, to attempt to maintain a flock of believers in mysticism and supernaturalism. However, that will only delay the decay of what is a dying business.

No doubt, in the distant past, the believers in the gods of Egypt, Greece and Rome and the attendants of their temples never thought that their beliefs could fade away and their temples become ruins for lack of believers to maintain them.

However, then as now, with increasing knowledge, teachings which no longer satisfied people's minds or reasoning died out.

TREND.

Business Licences

Alderman Don Smith is quoted in a recent press report as saying that he will find out why some business firms are apparently excused from paying licences and others let off with a token fee. A good idea Mr. Smith.

If our taxes can be reduced two mills by making our bigger business firms pay their share, let's have it.

The fact that one store pays only $3,000 in Victoria and $40,000 for its slightly bigger store in Vancouver is astounding. These people do a good business here and enjoy all our city services and benefits.

Property owners certainly pay their full share in ever increasing amounts. Hoping to hear more from Mr. Smith.

Surprisingly Different

THERE is too much "sugar coating" and too much "soothing syrup" voiced by commentators on the relationships that exist between the United States and Canada. A disservice was being done to both countries by those who seek to overemphasize the common denominators between Canada and its southern neighbor, in the opinion of the United States Ambassador to Canada, Livingston Merchant.

Mackie

In fact he has found that in many respects Canadians and Americans are "surprisingly" different. He made this point when he spoke recently to the Canadian Club in Toronto. There were differences in culture, in institutions and in points of view.

Campaign

The American ambassador declared he was going to make a personal contribution to keeping the relations between our two countries in good repair. As his contribution he is launching a campaign against the sort of oratory that asserts that Canadians and Americans are exactly alike and that the 4,000-mile border is undefended because by Divine dispensation Canadians and Americans always think alike and never disagree.

Agreement

But while there were many points on which Americans and Canadians might disagree, there was one point on which Mr. Merchant agreed wholeheartedly with a Canadian sentiment. That sentiment was voiced recently in Chicago by Canada's trade and commerce minister, Mr. Howe. The minister suggested that U.S. corporations establishing branch plants or developing natural resources in Canada should provide opportunities, both for a Canadian share in the ownership and for Canadians competent to hold technical and professional positions.

Disagreement

One point on which Mr. Merchant indicated there could not be agreement with Canada's viewpoint was the matter of the U.S. "tied-in" future wheat sales—part of its surplus agricultural disposal program. Under this provision countries, taking advantage of the American surplus commodities plan of exchanging surplus wheat for local currencies must undertake to make some future purchases from the United States.

Canada has protested to Washington against this provision. Canadian officials only became aware of its operation last August. Ambassador Merchant disclosed it had figured in American agreement with a dozen countries for over two years. Canada had indeed apparently been asleep at the switch.

Significance

Significantly, Ambassador Merchant conceded that there had been damage done to Canada's wheat exports by the U.S. surplus disposal program. He believed however that the harm was temporary and it was his hope that the damage had been less than some had believed.

War

Another skirmish has developed in the almost continual political battle that waxes hot and cold between Quebec and Ottawa. Prime Minister St. Laurent fired the first salvo at Sherbrooke in Quebec when he declared his intention of doubling the Canadian university grants from $8,000,000 to $16,000,000. Recognizing that Premier Duplessis had warned the universities against accepting federal educational aid, the prime minister worked out a formula by which the money would be forthcoming from the University Council.

But the Quebec premier was adamant. In a blunt statement he rejected the prime minister's plan. In an equally forthright reply the prime minister appealed to the Quebec universities to go over the head of Duplessis and take the financial assistance which they badly need.

Pressure

Prime Minister St. Laurent clearly saw the pressure that would be exerted on Premier Duplessis by the Quebec universities. Mr. St. Laurent worked on his Sherbrooke speech carefully and was hopeful that his new formula would appeal to the Quebec institutions to such an extent that they would defy the premier.

Upshot was that Quebec university students marched on the Legislative Buildings in Quebec City demanding to see the premier and present their arguments in favor of accepting the financial grants. Even if Premier Duplessis prevents the Quebec universities from receiving the added financial aid, the money will be put into the bank and the fund will be available to the Quebec universities when the time comes that they feel free to accept the money.

Clarification

One point the prime minister made in his original Sherbrooke speech that caused consternation in other provinces was that the doubled grants would be forthcoming only if Quebec universities accepted them. In effect this would have meant that Premier Duplessis could, by his obstinate attitude, veto the increased aid to all Canadian universities. However, in response to persistent queries from reporters on that point, Mr. St. Laurent quickly altered his position and declared, upon his return to Ottawa, that the additional aid for universities across Canada was not contingent upon Quebec universities accepting the increased grants.

Stamps

The Retail Merchants' Association is worried about the inroads that the trading stamp operators have made into Canada. The high pressure stamp operators are now in the U.S. retail grocery trade on a large scale. They have gained a foothold in Ontario and are setting up an organization ready to move into Winnipeg and the rest of western Canada.

The RMA wants the federal or provincial governments to act to stop the operators from invading all of Canada. Trading stamps are covered by a section of the Criminal Code which makes certain stamp operations illegal.

The RMA wants a test case but the provincial authorities so far have declined to initiate such a case in the courts. The RMA is reluctant to launch an action on its own for fear that it might lose and have to pay heavy court costs. Meantime, the stamp operators are becoming "big business."

Hospital Deadlock Unchanged—Scurrah

Mayor Percy Scurrah today saw obstacles in the path of a proposed spring vote for a new $1,400,000 Royal Jubilee Hospital wing.

President of the hospital board of directors, Frank G. Mulliner said Tuesday he didn't think there would be much trouble in municipal sharing of the costs not covered by government grants and the hospital board.

But the mayor says Greater Victoria is deadlocked on this question. There can be no vote until the deadlock is broken.

"I understand the hospital negotiated with finance committee for two years without agreement. The committee took the stand the city had invested half a million dollars in that hospital. It still owes $150,000 or $200,000 in bonds. By the time these are paid the city's investment will be $700,000 while the outside municipalities, which use the hospital the same as the city, have invested a smaller amount.

"In view of the fact there are plenty of beds for people of the city, the finance committee took the stand there should be a greater percentage paid by the other municipalities."

It was proposed in a hospital board breakdown that Victoria pay 49.3 per cent of the $325,000 due from this area, Saanich pay 27.3, Esquimalt 9.7, Oak Bay 11.5 and adjoining territories 2.2 per cent.

Towboatman Drowns, Heroic Rescue Effort

Grim Sea Tragedy Near Ogden Point

Two towboatmen faced death in storm-tossed waters off Ogden Point breakwater early today in a heroic but vain effort to rescue a shipmate who fell overboard.

Drowned was Raymond Newton, about 30, of Vancouver.

His valiant mates are Rudy Vollner and Alex "Sandy" Warnock, also of Vancouver.

The grim tragedy of icy water and seven-foot waves started in pitch darkness and driving rain at 6 a.m.

Aboard the tug Grant Lindsay, of Vancouver Barge Transport, change of watch was taking place.

The tug was inbound from Vancouver, with a covered barge in tow, a heavy-weather crossing of the Gulf of Georgia safely behind her.

Suddenly a cry for help sounded off the stern of the tug. None of the crew saw him go, but Newton had fallen overboard.

Said Sandy Warnock, "Tossing around like that, it's not hard to slip."

The tug's master, Capt. Robert Oliver, ordered engines stopped, and Warnock and Vollner dove off the tug's counter into the inky, biting-cold water.

They swam in circles, looking for their shipmate. "We couldn't see a thing. It was so dark. And the waves were so high, it was impossible to find him," said Warnock.

The tug's skipper backed slowly toward the swimming men. Warnock grasped a bulwark and pulled himself inboard. Then he and the captain hauled Vollner over the side.

Warnock went below to strip off his wet clothing. The captain kept the tug backing toward the area where Newton had gone overboard.

Suddenly, Vollner shouted "There he is!" and again leapt overboard.

"I couldn't stop him," said Capt. Oliver. "He shouldn't have gone in again. He was already exhausted and nearly freezing."

But Vollner had spotted Newton, and swam to his side.

Months. "But he'd worked the waterfront for years," he said. "He was a good seaman, and a good shipmate."

The accident occurred between the tip of the breakwater and the Brochle Ledge light, close inshore. At one stage, while the tug was manoeuvring to search for Newton, her barge nearly fouled the breakwater.

Tom Taylor, launchman for B.C. Pilotage Authority, spotted the activity on the water and immediately went out to assist in B.C. Pilot No. 1.

He circled and criss-crossed the area for an hour before giving up the search.

RCMP requested divers from HMCS Naden diving unit to search for the body.

DEPUTY FISHERIES MINISTER LEAVES POST AFTER 22 YEARS

George J. Alexander, for 22 years deputy minister of B.C.'s fisheries department, retired from service today.

He was one of the few men possessing a complete and detailed picture of the province's multi-million dollar commercial fishing industry, gained through a full range of posts with coast fishing firms before succeeding J. P. Babcock as deputy minister.

In recognition of his service in the department, fisheries and agriculture minister Ralph Chetwynd was to present Mr. Alexander with a memento on behalf of his staff and colleagues this afternoon.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What is the population of Egypt? And when did the country first appear in history? Mrs. J. M. D.

A. A United Nations estimate in 1954 set it at 22,469,000. Archaeological records of ancient empires in Egypt go back to 4000 B.C. A high caste of rulers and priests dominated the lowly serfs.

Assyrians, Persians, Greeks (Alexander of Macedonia), Romans, Saracens, Turks, French (Napoleon) and British invaded Egypt. Under Turkish rule the khedive as hereditary viceroy had wide authority, but repeated insolvency led to regulation by European powers. Britain, which supervised the administration after 1882, made Egypt a protectorate in 1914 to defend it when Turkey joined Germany in the First Great War, but ended it Feb. 28, 1922. Britain then recognized Egypt as a sovereign state, but reserved defence, security of British communications and nationals and the Sudan. At this end of the country's long history readers will form their own conclusions as to how far the descendants of the swarming fellahs have been from the august position of a first-class nation.

Ernest P. Edwards, who showed his wildlife Mexican movie, "The Land of the Scarlet Macaw," at the Oak Bay High School Tuesday, said wardens should be selected on the basis of their interest in wildlife and conservation.

The six-foot tall biologist from Amherst, Virginia, said wardens are now appointed as law enforcement officers, not responsible for the welfare of animals.

"In my opinion they should be trained not only to enforce the game laws but also to care for animals and birds in game areas," he said. "There's more to conservation than simply catching a person who breaks the law."

A record crowd turned out to see Mr. Edwards' movie at the school auditorium. The movie lecture was sponsored by the Victoria Natural History Society and the Audubon Society of Canada.

Each received a Bible with his name inscribed from the British and Foreign Bible Society. Presentations were made by Rev. W. E. Greenhalgh and H. L. Hopkins.

Provincial archivist, Willard Ireland, spoke briefly on the duties of citizenship.

New Canadians are: Chin Shook Poy, Kum Young Chow, Lee Ying Kee, Lui Yan Woo, Lee Wah Yin, Ma Chun Yuen, Shung Lun Bew, Wong Wai, Eli Futterer, Egidius Futterer, Sven Georg Granavall, William Darius Kinney, Maria Lylia Marcollin, Gerhard Karl Heinrich Reiss, Aylene Sidorov and Fernand Vocat.

Participating were Mrs. H. L. Smith, past president of the council; Mrs. Peter Marr and Miss Ellen Hart of the University Women's Club; Rev. C. B. Smith, Victoria Ministerial Association; Mrs. H. J. Tullis.

It marked the fourth time the council has conducted similar ceremonies in effect a briefing on Canadianism—for the new citizens.

BETWEEN TIMES

By

MONTE ROBERTS

I have been asked to tell all I know about Halloween. Fortunately, I do not know much about Halloween.

Halloween is similar to New Year's Eve inasmuch both occasions provide an excuse for stupid people to do stupid things.

However, the day after Halloween is different from New Year's Day. The day after Halloween is chiefly distinguished by soap on windows, and New Year's Day by ice bags on heads.

(How New Year's Day got in here so prominently, I do not know.)

Halloween is really All Hallows Eve, so-called because All Hallows is apt to break loose.

Halloween has not been nearly so much fun since the invention of indoor plumbing.

In ancient times, the two chief characteristics of Halloween were the lighting of bonfires and the belief that this is the one night in the year during which ghosts and witches are most likely to wander abroad.

In modern times, the two chief characteristics of Halloween are children with burnt fingers and fathers saying "now, when I was a boy..."

Halloween is also the day before the day on which the city fathers say the ban against fireworks MUST be enforced—next year.

Halloween is when small-sized children have a big time, and 20-year-old children with small minds cause the cops no end of grief.

Setting off firecrackers on Halloween is an old Chinese custom, and as nothing to do with Halloween. Firecrackers are supposed to frighten away evil spirits, but all they do is give dogs with sensitive ears convulsion fits.

Halloween is held every year on Oct. 31 because November will have no part of it. Like Christmas, it comes but once a year. But unlike Christmas, this is once too often.

Fortunately, I do not know very much about Halloween, except I am very well equipped for same, having my own built-in funny face.

REV. HUBARD

Assistant Priest For Cathedral Here From U.K.

New junior assistant priest to Christ Church Cathedral, Rev. Christopher Hubbard, arrived from England Tuesday with Mrs. Hubbard, and their 18-month-old daughter, Helen.

They were greeted at the dock by Dean Brian Whitlow, Mrs. Whitlow, Rev. George Lang, senior assistant priest, and wardens of the cathedral.

Ordained in 1953, Mr. Hubbard, 31, has been rector of the Ringwood Parish in Winchester, England, for the past three years.

The Hubbards will stay at the Angela Hotel here until they find a home.

SHADES OF THINGS TO COME?

City police were given a Halloween "preview" Tuesday night by youths creating a disturbance with firecrackers.

Mrs. F. Lesley, 806 Linden, reported a large firecracker was thrown through a doorway of her home and burned varnish on the door.

A woman and her daughter complained to police that a gang of youths using obscene language threw firecrackers at them while they walked on the street.

Police answered another call to the Strathcona Bowling Alley, 712 Courtney, where the manager reported youths were throwing firecrackers down the stairway.

Another tip-off of things to come was reported by a citizen who told police he overheard a gang of youths in a city restaurant say they were going to shoot out all street lights on Yates Street tonight with a shotgun.

About 20 minutes had elapsed since the cry for help. "Newton was a good swimmer, but he didn't have a chance," said Warnock. "He was wearing heavy underwear, trousers, a lined jacket, and over that, a waterproof parka and trousers. He had on sea boots. He had a light fixed to his forehead, and the batteries in his pocket."

"The weight just dragged him down, I guess."

Capt. Oliver said Newton had been on the tug for about two months. "But he'd worked the waterfront for years," he said. "He was a good seaman, and a good shipmate."

The accident occurred between the tip of the breakwater and the Brochle Ledge light, close inshore. At one stage, while the tug was manoeuvring to search for Newton, her barge nearly fouled the breakwater.

Tom Taylor, launchman for B.C. Pilotage Authority, spotted the activity on the water and immediately went out to assist in B.C. Pilot No. 1.

He circled and criss-crossed the area for an hour before giving up the search.

RCMP requested divers from HMCS Naden diving unit to search for the body.

The Grant Lindsay operates a regular run from Vancouver to Victoria and return, alternating with her sister tug, the Joan Lindsay.

Ald. Arthur Dowell and Ald. Austin Curtis were named as other members of the committee. Council authorized the committee last week, taking the investigation out of the hands of Ald. W. F. Pinfold's finance committee.

Ald. Pinfold had argued the matter should await provincial government action. Ald. Smith felt the city should press for special permission to increase trade licences here.

He says Victoria charges large businesses too little, and in some cases nothing, to do business here. He has estimated the city could earn $175,000 additional revenue annually by a fairer scale of licences.

Silver and Gold on Velvet Feature of Purses, Belts

By PENNY SAVER

Glamour at low cost seems to be the selling point of the ornate evening purses and matching belts that have an exotic Oriental aura about them. On black velvet are embroidered gold and silver flowers that glitter in evening lights. When these first appeared several years ago, they were much more expensive. The belts hook at the back, giving the front a smooth, attractive line. The purses come in five styles and patterns and are priced at $4.95, $5.95 and $7.50. The belts are $2.95, and matching glass cases are $1.95. They're hand-made and would make lovely gifts for the clothes-conscious woman.

Large, blooming begonias in red or blue are backed with shaded green leaves, forming an attractive wall plaque. Begonias are a favorite flower with Victoria gardeners, and I'm sure these gay pottery pieces will be admired by all who see them. They may be bought single at $1.50, or in a pair for $3.

A gift for the bride is this Swedish cheese board I found. It's hand painted with bright wee flowers, and at one edge of the round board is a little mouse, also of carved wood and painted with posies. These handy boards sell at $4.50 each.

Wedgwood copies, made in Canada, caught my eye in a little gift shop. These delicately tinted wall plaques feature the four seasons. The background is pink, with white raised figures. The set of four costs $5. With the familiar blue background with white figures is a pair of Wedgwood copies with the cherubs and figures with lute and lyre. The pair costs $3.

Wall brackets to hold precious china figurines come in all sizes and shapes. Carved of wood are the golden-colored ones that are supported by sprays of tinted dogwood. A single shelf is $9.50. A double shelf is $11.50. If you have one of the large mantle pictures of the dogwood, these brackets would be especially attractive in the room. Once you see them, I know you'll like them.

Call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where to find any of the items mentioned here in the column today or during past weeks.

BPW Club Halloween Party

Baskets of fruit and flowers, pumpkins and Halloween witches set the theme when members of the Victoria Business and Professional Women's Club gathered Monday evening in the clubroom for a Halloween party.

The president, Mrs. Ruby Masters, welcomed the guests. In charge of arrangements were Misses Verna Beck, Ella Brett and Bernice Harvey.

Program included sleight-of-hand tricks with silk handkerchiefs, rings and rope, by Owen Fowler; a mystery guest from Hawaii in the person of Mrs. Cora Danby, who danced a hula, and Mrs. Mary Webb and Mrs. Marguerite Laughlin, as tuxedo-clad auctioneers, who conducted an amusing and profitable Dutch auction sale.

Games were enjoyed and refreshments were served by members of the bridge club, under convenship of Miss Nona Rich.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Your body is constantly renewing itself. Your skin is sloughing off old dead cells and growing new ones. Your blood stream changes from time to time and the tissues of your body do not remain the same. This is most encouraging because it means that you can change your body for the better if you will give yourself reasonably good care and eat as you should.

Good nutrition becomes a fascinating subject when you realize that the meat you ate last week is now a part of your red blood corpuscles, and the milk and fruit juice you drank now are working for your well-being. Your body must have essential materials with which to work and good nutrition provides these.

If you would like to renew yourself, cut down on fats and starches, be certain that you get an adequate supply of proteins and increase your vitamin and mineral intake. Eat most of your fruits raw, leave off fat meat, cook your eggs without grease and forget pastries for a while, anyway. You will find yourself much more enthusiastic and energetic!

A few years ago there was quite a fad for drinking vegetable juices. Today many of the world's great, and those less well known, continue this as a daily habit. You can buy these or you can brew your own vegetable "pot liquor." If you wish to make your own use carrot and beet tops, carrots, celery, cabbage, watercress and greens. Add tomato and lemon juice. If you wish, you can add a dash of garlic or onion.

Before folks became informed about nutrition the most important element in food went down the drain. Vegetables were cooked in large amounts of water and for long periods. The water then was poured off the vegetables and down the drain. With it went a lot of good health.

While we cannot stop the clock of age and the aging processes will continue no matter what we do, we can slow them down. If we have been neglecting ourselves, it is entirely possible to be in much better physical condition a few months from now than we are today.

There is a nice bonus, too. As you live and eat to improve your health you also are improving your appearance. The diet which is low in fat and carbohydrates, and high in protein, minerals and vitamins is really a slimming diet.

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 37 "Vitamin Defense," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman, in care of this newspaper.

Shy East Indian Girl is Bride In Traditional Sikh Ceremony

By KITTY DIXON

I went to a Sikh wedding... and it was like being transported to India with only one step into the Sikh Temple.

I properly left my shoes outside, according to Sikh custom, and wondered, as I did it, why there weren't more women's shoes among the rows on the Temple verandah. Only one pair of black suede pumps kept mine company.

Inside, I quickly spotted the familiar face of photographer, Irving Strickland, so went over and sat on the carpeted floor beside him. The wedding guests grinned and made excited signs with their hands.

Irving cleared his throat. "Ah... I think the women sit on the other side," came his whisper.

He was right. I was surrounded by men. Hurriedly I moved to the other side of the room, and sat beside a woman who, it happened, was just as bemused as I.

When I remarked that it seemed only men were entering through the front door, she nodded. "Yes, I'm afraid I made the same mistake. Women come in the back way."

That explained the one pair of women's suede shoes on the verandah. She was the owner. In the temple the women sat with blankets over their knees... to keep warm, I imagine.

BEARDED PRIEST

At the far end of the Temple was a man with a white turban and snowy white beard, Mushi Singh Dukhi, the priest. He sat beneath a green canopy brocade in gold and decorated with bright flowers and glittering ornaments like Christmas tree bangles. Before him was a satin-covered alter-like arrangement, holding the Sikh Bible which is held in highest respect by worshippers.

Every Sikh entering the Temple bowed low before the Bible and Priest... so low, in fact, that he or she would crouch on the knees, touching the head to the floor. Some tossed coin of offerings.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lavertu

Sooke Couple's 50th Wedding Day

A memorable day for five generations of the Reimnitz-Lavertu family, was that on which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lavertu celebrated their golden wedding.

On Oct. 17, 1906, Rev. Fr. Auclair united in marriage Pamela Reimnitz and Arthur Lavertu in St. Jean Chrysostome Church in the province of Quebec. In 1918, with five sons and two daughters, they moved from their store in Breakville, Que., to a farm in Donnelly, Sask., and 30 years later Mr. and Mrs. Lavertu came to Sooke to live with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jules Lavertu, at Sooke Harbor House.

Recently, Mr. and Mrs. Lavertu returned to Donnelly for the celebration, which began with High Mass sung by Rev. A. Houle in the parish church. Preceding the bride and groom of 50 years up the aisle were a great-granddaughter, Therese St. Hilaire, and a granddaughter, Alice Lavertu. In floor-length lace-trimmed gowns of gold taffeta with sashes and Peter Pan collars. They wore golden crowns and carried a basket of fresh flowers flown from Victoria, a gift from a family friend, Mrs. J. MacLeod. As the honor couple took their places, another granddaughter, Jeannine Marsollier, sang a jubilarian hymn composed for the occasion.

Assisting their parents, who renewed their wedding vows at the foot of the altar, were a son, Oliva of Prince Albert, and a daughter (Adelia), Mrs. Jos. L. Georget of Donnelly, Sask., while grandsons, Oliva Georget-Marsollier and Denis and Robert Lavertu served the Mass. Son Jules of Sooke, B.C., sang "Panis Angelicus" at the offertory and during the communion Mrs. D. Favreau played Gounod's "Ave Maria" as a violin solo.

CONGRATULATIONS

First to congratulate the happy couple was Rev. A. Houle, followed by Gus Baudais, reeve of the municipality. Jules Lavertu proposed the toast to his parents and read an address on behalf of the children. A bouquet of 50 fragrant golden-hued roses sent by the Lavertu family at Sooke was presented to Mrs. Lavertu by her daughter (Loretta), Mrs. Jos. Marsollier of Donnelly. ### ABOUT A "BAFFLING" ANNOUNCEMENT

The other day I received in the mail something that baffles me and would like your interpretation and advice. Without giving the real names it reads thus: "Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown announce the engagement of their daughter, Mary, to Mr. Charles Young, Nov. 18, 1956." That was all. There was no mention of a Louise Davis party or anything. But I hear by the grapevine that there will be a party that day. I used to know "Mary Brown" in grade school. Am I supposed to take her a gift?

Louise Davis Answers:

This is a new one on me and a strange way of announcing an engagement. If the Browns are giving a party, it's a strange "invitation." If I were you I would somehow verify that there is to be a party. You might as well go to the source by calling up Mary and tactfully ask her if the engagement announcement means that friends may be dropping in that day, and if so, what will be the hours. I see no reason for a gift unless you re-establish your friendship in the meantime. Even then you have no obligation.

Save Leaves and Grass To Nourish the Garden

Gardeners are just about ready to pack up their hoes and turn their green thumbs to growing things in doors. This means that the garden must be prepared for the long winter months.

Now is the time to gather up all the dead growth and put it to work for next year's flowers and vegetables. A compost pile made from this debris is a valuable source of the organic matter so necessary to a healthy soil.

To make a compost pile, simply arrange layer upon layer of weeds, lawn cuttings, dead plants, leaves and any other waste material from the garden. Between each layer sprinkle a little soil, along with a sprinkling of "Gardente" fertilizer to help feed the natural bacteria of the soil. The top of the pile should be kept concave to allow rain water to accumulate — water hastens the rotting process.

Any free corner of the garden — preferably hidden by trees or bushes — is an ideal place to

It may take a little while to build up a sizeable compost pile but before you know it, your fertilizer factory will be in business. Next year's daffodils and tulips will be bursting forth in a blaze of glory from last year's leaves and debris.

Kefauver Blames Oil, Power Politics

BATTLE CREEK, Mich. (AP)—Senator Estes Kefauver, Democratic vice-presidential candidate, said today he does not think there would be the possibility of war in the Middle East if the United States had followed a foreign policy based on moral principles instead of, as he put it, "oil and power politics."

Bridge Workers' Pay Demands Refused

VANCOUVER (CP)—Demand by 700 bridge workers for a wage increase of 35 cents an hour was rejected today by the majority report of a conciliation board which termed the demand "not reasonable."

The report followed three months of fruitless negotiation between Western Bridge and Steel Fabricators Ltd. and the Marine Workers and Boilermakers Industrial Union, Local 1.

2 Hunters Feared Killed by Grizzly

PRINCE RUPERT (CP)—RCMP believe that two missing hunters, whose tattered clothing was found last month, died in a battle with a grizzly bear.

The hunters, Wilfred Hawkins, 29, and Terry Carlick, 22, have been missing in mountainous terrain near Telegraph Creek since Sept. 15. The father of one of the hunters found the torn clothing along with a rifle and an empty cartridge belt while searching for them.

Bus Driver Killed in Vancouver

VANCOUVER (CP)—A bus driver was killed and two passengers cut by flying glass when the bus collided with a sawdust truck in the city's east end today.

Police suspect the bus driver may have succumbed to a heart attack before the crash. The impact sent the bus crashing into a store. Extent of damage has not been estimated.

AFTER HUNGARIAN REVOLT

Big Shift Forced In Russian Policy

(See Also Page 18)
MOSCOW (AP)—In a major policy shift, the Soviet Union says it wants all the Communist countries to be completely sovereign, and is willing to talk about the disposition of Soviet troops in Hungary, Poland and Romania.

An unusual declaration issued by the government Tuesday night was interpreted by diplomatic observers as indicating Moscow was seeking a graceful way out of an increasingly embarrassing situation within the Communist camp. The Soviet troops in Poland, Hungary and Romania are there under terms of the Warsaw pact, a Russian-commanded mutual defence alliance formed last year by the Soviet Union and her Eastern European allies.

Defence Minister Marshal Georgi Zhukov told Western correspondents that all the pact members would have to agree to the withdrawal of Soviet troops from Hungary, a major demand of the rebels.

There was no mention in the declaration of Soviet troops in East Germany.

Britain "Will Do What We Said"—EdenAngry Exchanges Mark Debate
On Mid-East in British Commons

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today made clear that Anglo-French forces would move into the Suez Canal zone despite United States opposition.

Prime Minister Eden told the House of Commons:

"We stand by what we said and we shall carry it out."

Shortly after his speech an official British statement from Nicosia, Cyprus said: "An air offensive by bomber aircraft under Allied command is at this moment being launched against military targets in Egypt."

Eden said that the Anglo-French request Tuesday to Egypt to allow troops to enter the three main canal zone towns still was open.

He told the House—puzzled because prior to the Nicosia official statement there had been no news of actual Anglo-French landings which had been generally expected during today.

"We have no desire whatever, nor have the French government, that the military action we shall have to take shall be more than temporary in its duration."

"But it is our intention that our action to protect the canal and separate the combatants (Israel and Egypt) should result in a settlement which will prevent such a situation arising periodically in the future."

Eden said: "The moment that the French government and ourselves had reached the conclusions

No Planes, Ships
From Canada—PM

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian government today decided to suspend "for the time being" all shipment of arms to Israel.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said Egypt also would get no arms if she asked for them.

The prime minister also said Canada did not intend to send planes or ships to the troubled area.

He also told reporters following a three-hour extraordinary cabinet meeting on the Middle East crisis that he has made no decision to recall parliament and hoped that such a recall would not be necessary.

He sidestepped a question as to whether the suspension of arms shipments to Israel included Canadian government criticism of Israel's invasion of Egypt.

He said it meant only that the government had taken under review the question of whether Canada should allow the export of 24 Sabre jets to Israel.

None of the Canadian jets for Israel has been delivered yet. In addition to the planes, the suspension order would cover other small and routine shipments of arms, such as mortar and artillery shells and spare parts for military vehicles.

Mr. St. Laurent said he believes Canada's present military forces are "quite sufficient for our requirements" and did not

NEW YORK (AP)—Democratic candidate Adlai Stevenson says the Eisenhower administration dismissed a proposal he made to bring peace to the troubled Middle East—an area certain to figure largely in the last six days of the United States presidential campaign.

Israeli military moves into Egypt forced cancellation Tuesday of President Eisenhower's own political plans for today, and left the remainder of his campaign program in doubt.

OTTAWA—Cocky Conservatives were celebrating here Wednesday the end of 23 years of Liberal rule in Nova Scotia, where Tuesday the PCs won 23 out of 43 seats. (See story, Page 6.)

They are predicting that similar all-out organizational efforts would bring the same results in Manitoba during the provincial election there expected in 1957.

There are now only three provincial governments that are Liberal: Newfoundland, Prince Edward Island and Manitoba.

The Conservatives also have three provinces. They are: Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Ontario.

WANT VOLUNTEERS

Citizens to Get
Evacuation Plan

A printed evacuation plan and map will be given Greater Victoria householders in the next few days.

A practice evacuation of the city and district will be discussed at an early meeting of the local CD board.

An appeal for volunteer "block wardens" was issued today by Mayor Percy Scourrah.

Drivers were warned to keep a half-tankful of gas in their cars at all times.

In the event of evacuation, citizens of this area will be moved into the homes of up-Island residents at a ratio of three to one.

Buses, trains and ships have been arranged for in the event full-scale war comes to this area.

These were the facts reported by city and provincial civil defence heads today when presented with the question: "Is Victoria ready for war?"

They pointed out today's state of preparedness was also yesterday's.

The area was moving toward completion of a full-scale evacuation plan for months previous to the emergent state of the world today.

RAF Raids Kill 7
Cairo Radio Claims

LONDON (AP)—British and French air and sea forces today attacked Egypt with Cairo Radio reporting RAF bombers striking at five key centres—including the Egyptian capital where seven persons were killed.

British officials in London insisted that Cairo was not on the list of military targets.

Cairo Radio said: "At 8.50 p.m. local time (10.50 a.m. Victoria time) British bombers carried out attacks on Cairo, Alexandria, Port Said, Ismailia and Suez."

"Seven persons were killed in Cairo and minor material losses occurred."

Earlier in the day British broadcasts had warned Egyptians to keep away from their airfields.

Late tonight Cairo radio was heard in London quoting an Egyptian headquarters communique that British planes had raided Alexandria, Cairo, Port Said and Ismailia.

(At Paris, the French defence ministry said British and French air forces launched bombing operations today against all types of Egyptian military objectives. A spokesman told reporters, "This is the beginning of the Anglo-French operation in the Suez Canal zone.")

First word of the Anglo-French attacks came from Cyprus, where RAF headquarters issued an official statement saying combined aerial and naval bombardments began at 6.40 p.m. Egyptian time (8.40 a.m. Victoria time) against points in the Suez Canal area.

Shortly afterwards the British defence ministry at London confirmed the Cyprus communique and added that the combined Anglo-French air and sea operations were under command of Gen. Sir Charles Keightley.

No mention was made of ground forces.

A British-French ultimatum, demanding that Egypt and Israel cease hostilities and that the fighting forces of both sides keep clear of a zone 10 miles on either side of the canal, expired 14 hours earlier. Egypt rejected the ultimatum. Israel accepted it on the condition that Egypt would agree.

Israelis Capture
Egyptian Warship

TEL AVIV (Reuters)—Israeli forces today captured a crippled Egyptian destroyer following an air-sea engagement near Haifa which forced the ship's crew of 250 to surrender, according to Israeli sources.

Unofficial reports said Israeli rocket planes dive-bombed the 1,000-ton destroyer Ibrahim Awal as she appeared near Haifa. A white flag was swiftly hoisted, the reports said.

An air force spokesman said two Soviet-built Egyptian MIG jet fighters and a British-built Vampire jet were shot down at dawn today, bringing the total Egyptian planes lost to date in the present crisis to seven.

The actions took place as Israel accepted a joint Anglo-French ultimatum to lay down her arms providing Egypt accepted as well. But Egypt's President Nasser refused to lay down his arms in exchange for

Six of Nine Polls Favor
Eisenhower

NEW YORK (CP)—Six of nine news agencies, magazines and newspapers conducting state-by-state surveys of the United States election picture predict that President Eisenhower will win when the ballots are counted next Tuesday.

The other three agree that the president is leading.

The surveys, some incomplete, vary in their forecasts of the president's probable margin of victory over Adlai Stevenson but all predict it will be closer than the 42-to-39 edge in electoral votes that Eisenhower gained over his Democratic challenger in 1952.

Time magazine gives the most optimistic view of the president's chances—a total of 384 votes to 147 for Stevenson. Estimates of Stevenson's possible strength range up to a high of 248 electoral votes.

With almost equal unanimity, the surveys predict that the Democrats will retain control of both houses of Congress.

Rocket Site

FORT CHURCHILL, Man. (CP)—On snow-covered tundra in northern Canada Tuesday, a $6,000,000 steel-webbed rocket launching camp was dedicated to scientific research of outer space.

United States military leaders and Canadian scientists spoke at the dedication ceremony at the U.S.-built rocket site, 12 miles east of this Canadian joint service military base 610 miles north of Winnipeg on the Hudson Bay coast.

FAST SUEZ MOVES KEEP TIMES SIGN MEN BUSY

The fast-moving events in the Suez situation today had Times bulletin staffers doing a merry chase attempting to keep the Times news sign at Oak Bay junction up-to-date.

For early morning traffic coming into town the sign read that landings in Suez had started. This had hardly gone up when Prime Minister Eden made it clear to the British Commons that landings hadn't yet begun. The sign was promptly changed.

But within minutes the official announcement came that bomber operations against Egyptian military installations were under way.

The sign changers went to work again.

before the present state of tension is to be held at Courtenay Saturday and Sunday to go over the detailed reception area planning and clarify instructions to the public.

FROM OTTAWA

Maj. Gen. Stein said he could not say at what point in a war an evacuation order would come.

"It would come direct from the federal government. It might be two or three days notice; it might be more; it might be a matter of hours."

Mayor Scourah said the Victoria district evacuation plan is ready and is now being printed. It will be distributed "in the next few days."

He said there is sufficient trained CD personnel to care for evacuation of hospitals, elderly people and the helpless.

"There are insufficient numbers to carry out the complete scheme, however," he stated. "We need several hundred volunteers to act as block wardens. It would be their duty to keep evacuation orderly, check to see drivers had enough gas, that families carried enough clothing, food and other supplies, listed in the forthcoming handbook."

ESCAPE ROUTES

He said the handbook will also contain an evacuation map which will give direction as to escape routes from the city. He said that to the best of his knowledge buses, trains, ships have been lined up to assist in evacuating those unable to travel in private cars.

The army and navy would work in co-operation with civil defence authorities but would be prepared to take over if requested, the mayor said.

Altogether there are 500 to 600 civil defence workers now trained in the area, the mayor said. Civil defence office said there is a potential of about 3,000, including 135 police and special police to ensure against looting, a force of 200 firemen and special CD firefighters, and a potential CD medical corps of 1,000.

Abel W. F. Pinfold, member of the control board who recently advocated a practice evacuation, said he will promote that action, a meeting to be held "as soon as possible."

A meeting was scheduled for Tuesday but was called off due to the illness of local co-ordinator Roger Peachey. He was still absent from duty today.

Ald. Pinfold said Victoria is classified as one of Canada's 13 top target areas.

need strengthening. He added, in reply to further questioning, that Canada did not intend to send planes or ships to the troubled area.

The ministers appeared deeply concerned as they emerged from the morning session.

Prior to the Cabinet meeting, Mr. St. Laurent told reporters that if Parliament is recalled it would not be to declare war but for the government to submit its attitude on the Middle East situation.

When they entered the Cabinet meeting neither Mr. St. Laurent nor External Affairs Minister Pearson had any information to confirm that Anglo-French forces have landed in the Suez Canal area. Later reports from London indicated that the landing had not taken place at the time the Cabinet was assembling.
